Marine Corporal Up For 'General'

By BARRY DONNELLY

To be promoted from corporal to general in less than six months is an unusual thing.

That kind of promotion could come to ex-Marine Mike Jay this year. Jay, of Torrington, Wyo., was discharged from the Marine Corps less than six months ago as a corporal. He now stands a good chance of becoming the field general for the 1973 Aggie football team.

Jay has all the assets to become a great Aggie quarterback in the traditions of Roddy Osborne, Charlie Milstead and Edd Hargett. He has the great quickness, a good understanding of the game and is blessed with a strong arm. With these tools, the six-foot, 180 pounder could have that promotion just around the corner.

Though at the time Jay seems to have the inside track on the starting job, he will face strong competition from two top freshmen prospects. They are David Shipman from Odessa and David Walker, a fine left-handed passer from Louisiana. Both these boys are fine athletes, loaded with talent and ability. This should make the battle for the starting berth an intense one.

Jay comes to the Aggies via the Quantico Marines, who he quarterbacked in 1972. That year the gridiron soldier led them to a 8-4 record against NCAA collegiate competition.

Jay works hard at the game. During the off season he works out on his own and with friends to stay in shape. He also tries to polish the skills necessary to run the new "T Bone" formation. Jay said this kind of dedication is necessary to keep an edge on becoming the starter this year.

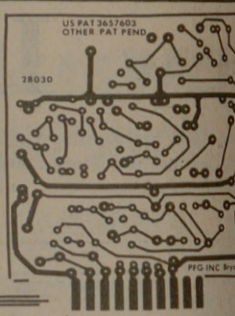

"With the kind of talent we have at quarterback," he said, "the competition will be real keen as to just who will be the starter."

The Aggies begin fall workouts August 23. They will drill in shorts the first three days, then don the pads and get down to serious hitting.
