Freshmen Camp Held In Palestine

A&M's largest contingent for the YMCA Freshman Camp checked in Sunday and left Monday for three days at Lakeview Methodist Assembly Grounds near Palestine.

The 20th pre-school camp involves 537 students and instructors, according to Logan E. Weston.

The YMCA director and religious life coordinator said the biggest previous fish camp numbered 386. About a third of the 1973 camp will be women students.

Fish camp provides top high school students enrolled at A&M a transition to college life. Sessions and small group discussions will be oriented on A&M traditions, student and religious activities and moral standards.

Weston said the theme of the 1973 camp is "Aiming the Student at YMCA-Level Moral Standards."

An upperclass counselor for each two freshmen at the camp will live in close proximity to the first year students, to answer questions and develop points made by area ministers and A&M faculty-staff in class-type sessions.

Freshmen are invited to fish camp on the basis of their high school academic records and extra-curricular activities. A prerequisite is earlier attendance at a summer new student conference.

Counselors are sophomore and junior student leaders who have successfully adjusted to college life.

"They can still remember the problems of their freshman year and relate to the new student," Weston said.

The group traveled by bus to Lakeview. They departed Monday after being greeted by Dr. Tom Adair, assistant to President Jack Williams, on the south steps of the University Conference Center. They are due back on campus at noon Thursday, Aug. 30. A&M Fall semester classes start Monday, Sept. 3.

A&M Selected For Computer Installation

A&M has been selected as one of three sites in the nation for installation of Crystallographic Network computer terminals capable of displaying three-dimensional graphics.

One terminal has already been installed in the Chemistry Department at Brookhaven National Laboratory in New York. A&M and the Cancer Institute in Philadelphia are scheduled to receive identical equipment in October.

When the communications link becomes operational, all three terminals will be connected to a computer at Brookhaven's Central Scientific Computing Facility.

The A&M terminal will be located in the Biochemistry and Biophysics Department and be primarily used by a research team headed by Dr. Edgar Meyer. Dr. Meyer is principal investigator for a project entitled "Development of a Crystallographic Computing Network with Three-Dimensional Display Capability" and supported by a three-year $240,000 National Science Foundation grant. The overall "Crystnet" project also is supported by NSF.

Dr. Meyer noted the three-dimensional displays made possible by the special terminals provide distinct advantages for studies of complex molecules.

The A&M professor, who holds a collaborative appointment at Brookhaven, helped initiate "Crystnet." He, along with Dr. Carl Morimoto, Dr. Tom Willoughby and David Klunk from TAMU, worked on the project at Brookhaven during the summer.

Dinner Tickets Deadline Friday

Persons wishing to join in honoring A&M's retiring Dean of Students James P. Hannigan have until Friday, Aug. 31, to get tickets to the appreciation dinner.

The dinner will be at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 5, at the Briarcrest Country Club.

Tickets at $6 each are available at the Association of Former Students Office in the Memorial Student Center.

Dean Hannigan officially retires Aug. 31, ending 14 years of supervising students affairs at A&M.
