Opera, Culture Brought to A&M

Opera, the pageant of story in song, and other cultural presentations will be hosted this academic year by the new Opera and Performing Arts Society. A functioning committee of Town Hall, OPAS has scheduled for its debut season such organizations as the National Ballet of Washington, Jan. 31, and the Houston Symphony, April 25. All performances will be held in the new University Auditorium. To become part of this organization a contribution of $20 or a guaranteed pledge of $100 is necessary. These gifts can be made on an installment plan. Members of the organization are given first option on season tickets, their names listed in all programs and pamphlets and receive invitations to "after-performance parties and the after-opera festivities, the Opera Gala. A season ticket for students with activity cards costs from $13.60 to $21.25, depending on seating placement. This is almost a 50 per cent discount from regular prices. Students without cards pay from $16.65 to $26.50, and regular season tickets cost from $18.45 to $31. OPAS' first presentation will be on Nov. 5 with Christopher Parkening, who has been hailed as America's "first important classical guitarist." The remainder of the premier season includes: Itzhak Perlman, violinist, Dec. 5; Van Cliburn, renowned pianist, Jan. 17; Marisa Galvanny, soprano, April 9; and special attraction, the Houston Lyric String Quartet with Albert Hirsh, pianist, March 28. The climax of the season will be the opera buffa, "The Marriage of Figaro," Feb. 27, featuring Norman Treigle in the major role and the Opera Gala held afterward. OPAS, founded in the fall of 1972, is supported by the Arts Council of the Brazos Valley. Under direction of its executive committee, more than 500 people in the eight county area of the Brazos Valley, including TAMU students, have arranged and financed this program to begin an era of cultural presentations. Tickets and further information about performances are available at the Student Programs Office of the Memorial Student Center, or by calling 845-4671.

Bulletin Board

TONIGHT
 Omega Phi Alpha will hold an activities meeting Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the Student Programs Office. Aggie Cinema will meet in Rooms L&M of the Student Programs Office at 7:30 p.m. for an organizational meeting. Preparations for the movie "Paint Your Wagon" which the club will sponsor Friday and Saturday nights will also be discussed. All interested in becoming new members are urged to attend. The Saddle and Sirloin Club will meet in Room 215 of the Animal Industries Building tonight at 7:30.
