TAMSS Offers Free Tutoring

The Texas A&M Scholastic Service (TAMSS) will again be offering incoming freshmen free tutoring during the fall semester.

Students needing help with specific problems, papers or quizzes on an intermittent basis should call their campus section representative or register at a special booth to be set up in late September.

Dormitory representatives will also be available in each Corps and civilian dorm.

In addition to private tutoring TAMSS will offer special refresher courses to freshmen and will be organizing several help sessions in the library on a round-the-clock basis during the semester.

Freshmen enrolled in TAMSS will have access to the most extensive quiz file on campus. They may also be able to "audit" preliminary courses free of charge, subject to the approval of the instructor.

Honor Student Tutor cards for '72-'73 student tutors may be picked up at the first TAMSS meeting. Former tutors wishing to remain a part of TAMSS can go by Room 103 of the Zachry Engineering Center or the Dean of Women's office in the YMCA Building.

Established in August 1971 TAMSS has developed into the largest tutoring service of its kind in the nation. Last year TAMSS involved the top members of the class of '75 who composed the top 25 per cent of the membership of Phi Eta Sigma, the national honor society. These honor tutors were selected on the basis of outstanding scholastic achievement.

Jointly sponsored by Phi Eta Sigma, Alpha Lambda and the Student Senate, TAMSS will offer help in a wide range of courses this fall. Included are anthropology, agronomy, architecture, biology, chemistry, physics, mathematics, environmental design, economics, mechanical engineering, civil engineering, chemical engineering, electrical engineering and computer science.

Aggie Players To Organize

Aggie Players will organize Wednesday for the 1973-74 semester.

Tryouts for two major fall productions, "The Devil's Disciple" by Shaw and Moliere's "School for Wives," will begin at the meeting, announced C. K. Esten, director.

The 7:30 p.m. meeting will be in Building "J."

The Aggie Players is the production company of the English Department's Theater Arts Section, chaired by Esten. He emphasized that A&M students need not be enrolled in theater arts courses in order to join the Players and take part in productions.

"The Devil's Disciple" will be staged in October; "School for Wives" in December.

Student Senate Positions Open

Filing for vacant Senate positions will begin today and continue through Friday, announced by Barry Bowden, Student Election Board Chairman.

Applications are available through the Student Government Office in the new Memorial Student Center Programs Office from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Senator positions will be elected as follows: One senator from the Henderson-Fowler living area, a senator from the Keath-

FUND-RAISING CAMPAIGNS begin early as Aggie Cross (left) purchases a spirit sticker from Head Ye Leader Griff Lasley.

'Brown' Exposure Asked For TV

WASHINGTON (AP)—The highest-ranking Mexican-American within the Nixon administration said here Monday that exposure of "a brown face" on network television and the problems of Spanish-speaking people in the Eastern press are his most difficult tasks.

Dr. Henry Ramirez remarked that the media are giving a lot of play to the 10th anniversary of the march on Washington in behalf of equal rights and opportunities for blacks, but little to what he terms the "brown face."

"It's hard to get on CBS and the other networks. You've to wine and dine the guys then they'll say 'Maybe,'" Ramirez, chairman of the cabinet committee on opportunities for Spanish-speaking people.

Ramirez also noted that foundations such as Ford and Rockefeller have placed great emphasis on problems and opportunities for blacks but little none to other minorities.

As a result, he said, "problems of the Spanish-speaking have been overshadowed by the problems of the blacks in corporate board rooms, in the government and in the media."

Ramirez said the '70's will be the decade of the "brown face" the Spanish-speaking people unite.

It's a Great Year for the Aggies!
