sides, he's a snuff dipper from way back," the dog said between spits into a pop bottle.

"You know that it just may have been destiny for Mike to come here," Brazos said. "You know that my name means arm and Mike does have a good one. I got the name when Mike heard it from a Marty Robbins record and it just happened to be a river near here. I even went swimming there yesterday."

Brazos slept "mostly on the floor except when I could get Mike or Scott to feel sorry for me. Then they might let me in bed."

"I am kinda sorry to go back home because I was just gittin kinda used to it here. Everybody has treated me as well, I really like to go over to the girls dorms and get petted and brushed and even get some good stuff to eat," Brazos said, "but I can keep up with the Aggies through the paper."

Brazos didn't seem concerned that Jay's ankle was slightly hurt and he was doubtful for the LSU game Saturday.

"Mike is really tough and he will resume working tomorrow," Brazos said. "He will be ready Saturday."

Brazos said he keeps close tabs on Jay to make sure he will be ready.

"Mike takes extra good care of me cause he knows a lot about dogs being an animal science major and I take care of him. He only dates on the weekends and we get a lot of sleep around here. We talk about Mike's execution before the game Saturday and after he settled down, he did a super job."

I concluded the interview with Brazos and headed back to the office to get it all on paper.

As I headed to the door I heard that same voice scream at the top of its lungs, "BEAT THE HELL OUT OF LSU. I didn't have the guts to turn around to see if Brazos was humpin' it."

Bellard Says LSU to be Tough

By TED BORISKIE
Assistant Sports Editor
Anyone attending Coach Emory Bellard's press conference Tuesday might have thought A&M's mentor had a limited vocabulary with his repeating of the word "tough."

Bellard was only describing A&M's Saturday opponent, LSU, and after looking at the 1973 Tigers, it's easy to see that "tough" is about the best description of each position anyone can find.

"They're a real good football team," said Bellard, "no ifs, ands or buts about it. They completely dominated the game Saturday. Colorado didn't move the ball at all except for one little spurt. LSU's defense really bottled them up."

LSU upset Colorado 17-6 to move to the No. 11 spot in the Associated Press' Top Twenty poll. "They played a much better game than it looked," said Bellard. "The score wasn't indicative of the game. LSU missed six field goal attempts."

Bellard cited LSU's offensive line as being "incredibly solid" and said the Tigers were "defensively outstanding overall."

"There's no doubt about it," he said. "We have a tough fight on our hands this Saturday."

In speaking about last week's 48-0 victory over Wichita State, Bellard understandably could find little to complain about.

"I think we played well overall," he said. "Jay had a much better game than the statistics show (10 attempts, three completions, one interception). Some of his passes were dropped. The interception was his only bad pass and he had to throw that one off balance. I think he will be able to throw effectively against LSU."

Twenty-one freshmen saw action against Wichita State and Bellard was pleased with all of them.

"We have an excellent group of freshmen," he said. "I think everyone who played did a good job. We also have some excellent players who didn't get to play but we're looking for help from them in the future."

Bellard also cited the defensive line as playing an outstanding game, especially in "being able to control the line of scrimmage."

He said injury-wise "we are in top physical condition defensively but at the moment two players on the offensive squad are hurt."

"(Quarterback) David Shipman tried to work out but his knee still needs to heal a bit more," said Bellard. "Jay has a sprained foot. He hurt it during the first quarter Saturday but played for the rest of the game. It started getting stiff Sunday and got a little worse Monday. It hasn't been responding to treatment yet but you never can tell on these type of things. We hope he'll be ready to play Saturday but we'll just have to wait and see."

Everyone had praise of A&M's sprinted all-star linebacker Ed Simonini.

"Ed always plays an exciting game," said Bellard. "If I were a Schlitz man I guess I would say he plays with gusto."

Chamberlain May Jump to ABA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain, holdout center of the Los Angeles Lakers, said Tuesday he's talking with the San Diego Conquistadors but refused to confirm or deny he is on the verge of jumping to the American Basketball Association.

"I'm negotiating with the Conquistadors as possibly being a player and coach but that's as far as I can say," the 7-foot-1 veteran of 14 National Basketball Association seasons said during an interview.

The San Francisco Examiner Tuesday reported that Chamberlain, 37, would sign a $600,000-a-year contract with San Diego.

"I haven't even heard from the Lakers," Wilt said of the team he has served the last five seasons.

Chamberlain said he did not know where the newspaper report originated.

In San Diego, a spokesman for the Conquistadors said there was no agreement yet, although "I'm not denying the fact that we've had negotiations" with Chamberlain.

Chamberlain's contract with the Lakers has expired but it contains an option clause binding him to the club for another season. Pete Newell, Laker general manager, said, "We expect Wilt to play this year and if he plays anywhere, he'll play here."

Said Wilt, "The option is not my worry."

Chamberlain, most prolific scorer and rebounder in NBA history, said, "I can play 10 more years if I have to. There's the question of whether my mind and my body could stand playing one more year."
