Chamberlain Jumps to ABA

CHULA VISTA, Calif. (AP)—Wilt Chamberlain a National Basketball Association star since 1959, has signed a reported $600,000 a year contract to coach and play for the San Diego Conquistadors of the American Basketball Association, the club announced Wednesday.
 Dr. Leonard Bloom, owner of the Q's announced the signing at a news conference.
 Exact terms of the contract were not announced. Earlier it had been reported Chamberlain would be offered a three-year contract at 1.8 million with part of the money to be paid by the ABA.

A spokesman for the San Diego team said Chamberlain, who quits the Los Angeles Lakers for the switch to San Diego, is expected to play for the Q's, at least through the 1973-74 season. Bloom, a dentist who founded the Q's last year, said, "When I acquired this franchise I told the fans that I would bring superstars to the San Diego sports scene. Wilt is just the first. There will be others."
 Chamberlain was expected at the news conference but had not arrived when Bloom issued the team's statement of acquisition.
 The conference was in suburban Chula Vista, where Bloom plans to build a 20,000-seat stadium to be ready by the 1974-75 season.

In the meantime, Wilt and the San Diego team will play at the 3,200-seat Community Concourse in downtown San Diego.
 Chamberlain's reported salary with San Diego would double

Soccer Team Begins Season

The A&M soccer team is well into its season play in the Texas Collegiate Soccer League.
 Challenging the University of Texas on Sept. 15, the Ags showed their skill by beating U.T. 2-1.
 In their second seasonal game, University of Houston took the lead at the half with a 1-0 score. Nano Schwartz brought the score to a 1-1 tie at the beginning of the second half which was how the game ended.
 Four other home games will be played. Check the schedule below for the dates.

that he received from Los Angeles. A lawsuit appears in prospect.
 The 7-foot 1 1/8 inch veteran joined the Lakers for the 1968-69 season in trade from Philadelphia for three players.
 He averaged 20.5 points that season but in the 12th game of the following campaign he tore knee ligaments and didn't return to action until playoff time.
 Chamberlain played all the following season as the Lakers won the NBA title for the first time since coming to Los Angeles in 1960. Chamberlain's Philadelphia team had won the title in 1967.
 Reportedly, the huge pivot man had signed a $1-million contract covering five years with the Lakers when he arrived, his attorney, Sy Goldberg, maintains that since the five years have passed, work in which he went to Chicago and practiced with Chicago Bears kicker Mac Percival, who played his college ball at Texas Tech.

 When the SWC press tour went through A&M, coach Emory Bellard said the placement kicking was the biggest problem area for the Aggies. Haddox has shown that is true no more.

Haddox Sets Record Pace After Summer of Work

A&M's junior placekicker Randy Haddox is setting quite a pace for himself. The 6-5, 240-pounder from Chesterton, Ind., has tied or broken a school record in his first attempts at extra points and field goals.
 Haddox lettered as kickoff man last season while senior Pat McDermott set most of the school placement records. Then in the season opener, Haddox kicked six extra points to tie a mark last set in 1950 by Darrow Hooper.
 Against LSU, Haddox kicked three field goals in the first half, the first time an A&M player had ever booted that many. Five different players had kicked two field goals in a game 11 times, but never three.
 The first miss for Haddox came in the third quarter on a 46-yard attempt. He later narrowly missed a 50-yarder into a slight breeze.
 Haddox credits his tremendous improvement to a summer of hard his client is not under contract to the Lakers.

 Pete Newell, general manager of the Lakers, holds the the option clause of the Chamberlain contract still remains in effect and "if he plays for anyone this season it will be for the Lakers."
 Chamberlain has fought with his coaches in the past and his new book, "Wilt" tells of run-ins with them.
 His latest difference with the Lakers concerned money and the club, apparently feeling insurance was necessary, traded starting forward Jim McMillian to Buffalo for center Elmore Smith.

Noting that, Goldberg declared, "Can you imagine Wilt sitting on the bench for a year?" He inferred the Lakers would use Smith ahead of Chamberlain.
