News Summary By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN - The State Textbook Committee votes Wednesday on which of 316 textbooks it will recommend to the State Board of Education.

Critics of 142 of the books renewed their objections before the committee at a hearing Tuesday.

HOUSTON - The executive director of the Houston office for Israel Bonds reported sales of $80,000 Tuesday in the wake of the latest Middle East war.

Marcus D. Leuchter said three men each bought $10,000 worth of the four per cent bonds and paid for them with money borrowed from a bank at a higher interest rate.

He said a woman who already had bought $37,500 in Israel bonds this year bought another $50,000.

Albert Goldstein, director of the Houston Jewish Community Council, said the council is making plans to raise funds from Jews and Israeli sympathizers.

NEW YORK - Sticking to his role as a traveling spokesman for the Nixon administration and saying nothing about his own problems, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew called for public support of government housing program reforms.

During a luncheon speech he said federally subsidized housing has been "a costly failure. With what we have subsidized so far — if we never put another penny into housing subsidies we have already committed American taxpayers to something between $65 and $85 billion during the 30 to 40 years it will take mortgages to run out," Agnew

TULSA-A federal judge said he had made "substantial error" in setting damages in his antitrust ruling against International Business Machines Corp. and would decide on amending his order or granting a new trial next Tuesday.

In the ruling last month, U.S. District Court Judge A. Sherman Christensen held that IBM, world's largest computer manufacturer, was monopolizing the computer accessory field. He ordered IBM to pay the Telex Corp. $352.5 million.

IBM asked that he either amend the order or grant a new trial.

BUENOS AIRES-Juan Peron, to be inaugurated as president Friday, has ordered tight security and a low-keyed ceremony as a result of renewed terrorist vio-

Extremists bombed the American owned Sheraton hotel in the capital, causing little damage, and attacked offices of Coca Cola, Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., and Mercedes Benz in the industrial city of Cboba, following Monday's assassination of labor leader Julian Julio.

University Hosts Science Conference

Science teachers from elementary, junior and senior high schools convene Thursday at TAMU.

Up to 800 participants are expected for the 20th Conference for the Advancement of Science Teaching (CAST), making it one of the largest at TAMU this year and the biggest academic group to meet in the new J. Earl Rudder Conference Center.

Only the Texas Firemen's Training School and the 4-H Roundup involved more people. The science teachers begin registering at 1 p.m.

The program of the three-day conference will provide teachers information on new developments, curricula and teaching techniques. Concurrent sessions will cover biology, chemistry, earth science, physics, junior high, elementary and special topics areas, according to the conference chairman, Dr. Gary Doolen of the TAMU Physics Depart-

Dr. Gerard P. Kuiper, noted astrophysicist, will speak Thursday at the first of three general sessions. He directs the University of Arizona's Lunar and Planetary Laboratory observatories.

Major presentations will also be made Friday and Saturday mornings by Dr. Robert Vickery, associate director of Individual Science Instruction Systems, Florida State University, and Richard Underwood of the Johnson Space Center photographic technology division.

Visiting science teachers will also tour Texas A&M's Cyclotron, Nuclear Science Center, Electron Microscopy Center and the Biology, Chemistry, Physics and Oceanography-Meteorology Buildings.

The conference is sponsored by the Science Teachers Association and TAMU in cooperation with the Texas Science Supervisors Association, Texas Education Agency and National Science Teachers Asso-

Frank Butcher of Baytown and Jesse Cope of Orange head the two Texas science teachers organizations.

Underwood is in charge of precision processing of Apollo and Gemini flight films at the NASA center. He serves as consultant for Skylab, the space shuttle, earth resources aircraft and related activities. Dr. Vickery is well known as the author of science textbooks and science series texts.
