

SG Proposes Student Attorney

The Student Government is preparing a proposal to institute a student attorney by the beginning of next semester. The proposal will call for a full time attorney and legal secretary with an office and law library to be funded by the university. A proposal was submitted to the administration last year but there were a few faults which called for revision before it could be approved.

The budget and the selection committee were the main problems in last year's proposal," said Dr. Tom Adair, assistant to the president. "Last year's proposed budget was incomplete," said Gwen Flynt who is now working on the project. "There were no provisions for office renovation or a law library."

"Last year's proposal provided for a selection committee made up of students," said Dr. Adair. "We need a mixed committee of students and administrators." Flynt agrees, "Students would not know what questions to ask in selecting an attorney."

"The proposal must also include what the students expect from the attorney," said Randy Ross, student body president. "Do we want just a law counselor or a lawyer with power to litigate?" To solve the problems and answer the questions raised by last year's proposal Flynt is researching other Texas universities with student attorneys.

Senate

The MSC was originally built and dedicated to honor those former students of A&M who gave their lives in defense of their country.

"In the past, no hats and shoes were part of the practice observed in the MSC," said Marsh. "Recently people started observing the grass around the center as a part of the memorial. It was never formally designated as such."

Marsh continued to say that the Rudder Tower and conference complex were not a part of the MSC and were not to be designated as part of the memorial.

During the meeting a committee was formed to examine the possibility of allocating blood to both countries in the Middle East conflict from the Aggie Blood Bank.

Harry Sandberg (Eng.-Sr.) said the allocation of the blood was not to take sides, but just an act to help people who need it.

"The lawyer at Tech cannot litigate but he solves problems by calling landlords and settling cases out of court."

Prof Accepts Post As Nebraska Dean

W. Cecil Steward, A&M architecture faculty member since 1962, will become Dean of Architecture at the University of Nebraska.

Steward has been associate dean of the College of Architecture and Environmental Design since 1969. He taught at all levels and has had extensive professional experience.

Steward will become one of two top administrators from Texas A&M at Nebraska. Dr. Durward B. Varner, of the Class of 1940, is chancellor of the University System. Steward, 39, will become Nebraska's first dean of architecture.

The registered Texas architect is a member of the American Institute of Architects, Texas Society of Architects, Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture, Phi Kappa Phi and Tau Sigma Delta.

Steward is administrative director of the Architecture Research Center at TAMU, among other academic responsibilities. He designed school buildings in New York City and New Haven, Conn.; the stadium crowd-control and color scheme for Kyle Field and the logo design for the President's Scholars program of the Association of Former Students, for whom he was also an interior planning consultant.
