"She is! How can you tell?" "She laughed too much while she was talking to us. It looked like she was laughing to cover up some nervousness.' "What should we do, just knock on doors until we find them?" "You can get arrested for that.

Let's go check out the Holiday Inn just in case." We drove around the Holiday Inn parking lot when suddenly. Wham!, we spotted it: a beautiful, snow white Cadillac limouthe pool." The Ramada girl was telling the truth! Sherlock Holmes has nothing to worry about.

Sonny and Cher! In the past call them on the phone to arrange an interview but first we would have to get the phone number which meant a trip to another front desk.

There were three women behind Coliseum on the sprawling camthe desk.

"Could you tell us what room Sonny and Cher are in?" "They're not staying here."

"We have reliable information that they're in Room 215 with a wonderful view of the pool." That struck home. They stood nervously glancing at each other "Could you give us their phone number?" More silence and more nervous

"Could you give us the number of their manager or their PR man?"

Finally one said "Their manager is Mr. Ridgeway. His number is 242."

Number 242 was answered by a small child. "Could I speak to Mr. Ridgeway? "He's already gone to rehearsal." We rushed back to G. Rollie to find the band playing full swing. We asked a policeman if he could point out Mr. Ridgeway to us. He directed us to a member of the Town Hall organization who immediately recognized me as a reporter for The Battalion. "What are you doing here?" "We're trying to get an interview with Sonny and Cher. We're looking for Mr. Ridgeway."

"Who authorized you?" "No one authorized us. We're members of the working press "We'll do what we can. Just leave us alone right now and we'll call you if we find anything." We were escorted to the door by the policeman. It was time to go knocking on doors. Back at the Holiday Inn we found that Room 215 did not face the pool. We located our maid and found she was not really sure "The Holiday Inn in College of the room number. She recommended we find another maid who might know more about it. We found a group of maids who knew but were not talking. While haggling with the maids a kid in a blue T-shirt walked by and solved our problems by telling us that Sonny and Cher had rented rooms 232-240, all of which overlooked the pool. "How do you know," we asked

"I listened in on a phone conversation."

Bless all eavesdroppers. We walked along the row of doors and heard noises in Room 240. We knocked on the door. The noises stopped. We waited. We knocked again. It became obanswer. The kid in the blue T-shirt was calling us. "I found their chauffeur." We talked to him for a while and scrawled a note that said something like "Could we see you for about 10 minutes?" He promised to give it to them.

We made it back to The Bat-"We have reliable information talion office to pick up a press pass and found a note taped to the door. "Go to G. Rollie immediately. Mr. Ridgeway tried to contact you."

Rushing to G. Rollie we heard into their private life. We would waiting in the rain for the doors to open at 7.

When we got backstage a man came to us and asked "Are you the reporters?"

"Yes.' He pointed to a man sitting in a corner eating from a bucket of fried chicken and watching Dallas and Los Angeles play football. "That's Mr. Ridgeway, he's the road manager. He'll tell you all about living on the road and anything you want to know about Sonny and Cher. It'll make a real good story."

"But we want to talk to them." "This is the road manager. He'll tell you everything you want to know. It'll make a real good story. Mr. Ridgeway was not interested in us. We were coming in a distant third to Colonel Sanders and the Los Angeles Rams. We tried a few polite questions. "What are they really like?" "Uh . . . they're like normal

Of course they're like normal people. What did we expect him to say, that they're lucky to be rich or else they'd be put away. "This is their only stop in the Southwest. Why did they pick

A&M?" "Uh . . . money."

Money! Why money! Why couldn't they come here because of the band or the drill team or because they watched the Cotton Bowl in 1968. Whey did they have to come because of money?

We thanked him for his trouble and left. Maybe they would get our note and grace us with 10 precious minutes. Yeah, maybe. It was raining harder and the line was getting longer. The radio was playing another Sonny and Cher song. At the concert that night I was seated at best a half a mile away from the stage. The crowd was abuzz with excitement. A man stepped up to the microphone and announced "Ladies and gentlemen, Sonny and Cher!!!" crowd went crazy. I could barely see them. For all I knew it could have been Sully and Shep on stage. It was then I realized: the two people, Mr. and Mrs. Bono, with whom I had tried to get in touch, were grossly unimportant. Sonny and Cher, the myth, was important. Many people who go to art galleries do not go to see the paintings, merely to see the signatures. We had been chasing the painting all day and now the signature was right in front of us.

And that's what it's all about.

AUSTIN (A)-Welfare Commissioner Raymond Vowell said today he would ask the state attorney general to take action to close two unlicensed children's homes operated by evangelist

Lester Roloff. Vowell also told a news conference he "could not be more pleased" if Roloff should come in and seek licenses for his Rebekah Home for Girls in Corpus Christi and Anchor Home for Boys in Zapata.

Roloff, meanwhile, planned a a Sonny and Cher song on the rally here today to protest the radio. It was about 4:30 and there state's refusal to let him operate were a couple hundred people his homes without a license.
