

Porkers Hope for Big Win Against Ags

A&M Takes Two-Game Winning Streak to Fayetteville

By TED BORISKIE
Assistant Sports Editor

A&M is taking its longest existing win streak — two games — to Fayetteville Saturday in the annual match-up with the Arkansas Razorbacks.

In 1971 the Aggies handed the Hogs one of only two losses suffered that season and last year Arkansas came to Kyle Field with one of the top passers in the nation, Joe Ferguson, and A&M intercepted him six times for a 10-7 win.

This year the Porkers are fielding no national power but revenge is sweet and the seniors on the Arkansas squad have been twice humiliated by a supposedly lesser A&M team. With the Aggies' football fortunes on the upswing while Arkansas struggles to remain respectable, it's a sure bet the Razorbacks would like nothing more than to turn the tables and send the Aggies home crying for a change.

Coach Frank Broyles holds a 12-4 edge over A&M with one decision, a loss, coming in 1957 while he was coach at Missouri. This year he has seen his once-awesome Razorback offense prove punchless in losses to Southern California (17-0), Oklahoma State (38-6) and Texas (34-6).

The Arkansas offense is spelled Dickey Morton and when Morton has a good day, so does the rest of the squad. Morton had 156 yards rushing in 17 attempts for one touchdown and a 9.2 average against Tulsa last week. He had his fourth long touchdown run of the season with a 77-yard score on the second offensive play of the third quarter. He had a 68-yard touchdown run against Iowa State and 68 and 81-yard scores against Baylor earlier in the season. Morton's 156 yards rushing was his twelfth 100-plus career performance, his third this season. He had six last year and three as a sophomore.

Morton has gained 801 yards in 123 carries for a 6.5 average this year and is second on the SWC career rushing list with 2820 yards in 492 attempts and a 5.7 average. Chris Gilbert (Texas '66-68) holds the record with 3221 yards in 595 carries, and Morton is just 411 yards shy of that mark.

Since Arkansas changed its offense to the slot-I from the wishbone prior to the Iowa State game, Morton has gained 710 yards in 103 carries for a 6.9 average. He had 73 yards in the season opener at Southern Cal and 18 yards against Oklahoma State in the first two games. But from the new formation, he has gained 137 yards against Iowa State, 76 against TCU, 271 at Baylor, 68 against Texas and 156 against Tulsa.

Leading the Porkers' offensive attack is quarterback Mike Kirkland. Junior Scott Bull, who was impressive in leading Arkansas to victory in the final game against Texas Tech last year, was originally slated for the slot but a pre-season injury put him out for the year. Kirkland, more a passer as Bull was considered a runner, stepped in and shakily directed the first two games until the formation switch where he settled down a bit.

Filling out the backfield are wingback Freddie Douglas and fullback Alan Watson, one of six freshmen slated to start against the Aggies.

Nick Avlos is the tight end while Jack Ettinger is the wide receiver. Ettinger is the leading Porker receiver and third in the conference with 19 catches to his credit. Avlos has had only one reception and is used primarily as a blocker.

Gerald Skinner and Lee King are the tackles, Russ Tribble and R. C. Theilemann are the guards while Stan Audas fills in at center. Skinner and Theilemann are freshmen.

The Hog defensive unit is generally considered to be a bit more solid than the offense but has seen its share of bad breaks due to injuries this year.

Linebacker Danny Rhodes was considered an all-America candidate pre-season but has not been performing at a level to gain national recognition thus far. He is the third leading Hog tackler behind tackle Jon Riddlehoover and injured linebacker Hal McAfee.

Riddlehoover was named the Associated Press' Defensive Player of the Week for his performance against Tulsa Saturday. Riddlehoover, who has been Arkansas' most consistent defensive player throughout the season, was credited with six individual and five assisted tackles. Tulsa quarterback Joe McCulley, then the leading passer in the nation, was dumped six times. Of these, four belonged solely to Riddlehoover and he helped on the other two.

Joining him on the line are Ivan Jordan and freshman Dennis Winston at the ends, Brison Manor on the other tackle and Mike Campbell at noseguard. The Razorback defensive line averages out to but 214 pounds to a man but is perhaps the quickest group in the conference.

Rhodes starts at his right linebacker slot while Billy Burns fills in for McAfee at the other.

The Arkansas secondary has not been without injury problems as Floyd Hogan and Brad Thomas are both out with injuries. Taking their place at their safety and cornerback positions are freshmen Bo Busby and Elijah Davis, respectively. Rounding out the Porker defense are safety Donny Prince and cornerback Rollen Smith.

F1 Takes Championship

Company F1 beat M1 for the Corps Championship in intramural flag football.

Defense and penalties were the two decisive factors of the game. Every 50 yards gained was matched by a 15-yard penalty, which frustrated touchdown attempts.

Pat Jarret and Bob Evans from F1's defensive line rushed effectively against M1's attack. Barry Buske quarterbacked the 14 "pre-professionals" but found little help from his offensive teammates. The defense held well against F1's quarterback pair, Tom Leopold and George Fraels. Mark New and Pete Starks ran for the decisive penetrations for F1's win.

Handball finals were also held with C2 beating Sg8 for the Corps Championship. The double teams of Scot and Johnson, Cavazos and Terrell, and Stilson and Brow placed their returned shots well, taking advantage of Sg8 mistakes.

Wheelmen Slate Bicycle Race

A 10-mile bike race has been slated by the Intramural Office and the A&M Wheelmen for Nov. 8 at 5 p.m. around the Drill Field.

Entries will be accepted at the Intramural Office until race time or at the reviewing stands on the Drill Field the day of the race.

Barricades for the race course will be manned by the University Police. Awards will be given after the race. If rain should fall within 30 minutes of the race, it will be postponed until Nov. 17 at 10 a.m.
