Water Polo Meet Set Here Saturday

A&M will host the third annual Southwestern Water Polo Championships Friday and Saturday. Two divisions of five teams each will compete, with the Ags fielding two teams in each division. Competition in Division "A" will consist of State College of Arkansas, Hendrix College, The Bunch from Houston and A&M varsity "A" and "B" teams. Division "B" is comprised of Lackland Air Force Base, College Station Swim Club, The Bunch "B" and A&M Frosh "A" and "B."

Although A&M varsity is seeded first in Division "A," the Frosh are expected to face some rough competition from the College Station Swim Club. GSSC beat them in the novice tournament held earlier this year and the team has experienced players that will challenge the somewhat greener freshmen.

With a 15-4 record for the season, A&M varsity has had little competition in the past several weeks due to game cancellations. The team placed third in a California tournament, but didn't match that record a week later in Albuquerque. "It's rough on the team to travel for four days, come back and try to catch up in their studies for three days and face another tournament for four days," said coach Dennis Fosdick. Games are scheduled every hour and a half and an A&M team will play in every time slot. The tourney starts 4 p.m. Friday and will continue through 6 p.m. Saturday, beginning 8 a.m. the second day of competition.

Seeker is 'Old Man' Of Offensive Line

Although only a junior with one varsity letter, Ricky Seeker is the veteran of A&M's interior offensive line.

Last year, as a sophomore, Seeker was the starting left tackle. Last spring he was moved to center and made a smooth transition to the new position. He is the only offensive lineman, from tackle to tackle, who can be called a returning starter.

The 6-3, 250-pounder from Bay City isn't exactly a stranger to the pivot spot. At Bay City High he played center, tackle and line-backer and he played some center his freshman year at A&M. Offensive coordinator Ben Hurt, who also works with the line, says "Ricky is a dedicated football player with a great attitude. He comes off the line real low and very quickly and he has excellent balance. He probably is our best blocking offensive lineman and he's made the position change very smoothly. He is one of our top leaders on offense."

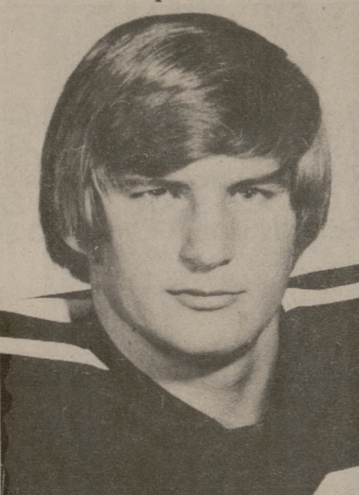

Ricky has bounced around at various positions in the line since coming to Aggieland and he has continually grown.

As a freshman center he weighed 225. He finished spring drills as the No. 2 left guard and he played his sophomore year at 235, switching from guard to starting left tackle. Last spring he was a 240-pound center and now he heads into his junior season at 250.

He's a good student in Marketing and Coach Hurt says that Ricky's intelligence and level-headedness causes the other young linemen to look up to him for leadership.

Although interior offensive linemen usually are the unsung heroes of football, if the Aggies get their offense rolling this fall you can bet it's because the linemen are opening holes for the ball carriers. And Seeker will be one of the top blockers.

'Gig'em' To Become Airborne

To "color the sky maroon and white" with the release of balloons at the kickoff of the football game this Saturday is Sigma Phi Epsilon's goal.

SPE is a nationally chartered fraternity which hopes to establish the release of balloons as a sign of Aggie spirit.

For 25 cents a coupon can be purchased on campus that will be traded at the gates of Kyle Field for a maroon and white "Gig 'Em" balloon. Some 5,000 helium-filled balloons are available for purchase.

Local merchants have gotten behind the endeavor and will distribute tickets for the balloons at their locations. These include: Loupot's, Sparkey's, Pizza Gallery, Charlie's Grocery, Texas Aggie Bookstore, University National Bank, Home Finder Realty, the Gentleman's Quarter and Discount Liquor.

Coach Emory Bellard said, "You have my 100 per cent support." Marvin Tate, associate director of athletics, also backs the balloon sale.
