SWC Football Ends Saturday

Associated Press Sports Writer

The Rice Owls can perch on undreamed heights Saturday with a victory over Baylor in the final weekend of the Southwest Conference football campaign.

Rice Coach Al Conover's crew was about the only unpredictable thing in the conference this year. Texas won the title for the sixth consecutive campaign just as it was supposed to and Texas Tech was the runnerup.

But Rice in third place? You could have found a hard time getting 50-to-1 odds. Rice was generally picked to finish in the SWC cellar.

Despite a low-scoring offense, the Owls have defeated Arkansas, A&M and Texas Christian on back-to-back Saturdays with a stout defense and the long-distance lightning of kickoff return specialist Carl Swierc.

"It's hard to believe Rice has won three games with just a total of 18 first downs, but that shows you what all-effort will get you," says Baylor Coach Grant Teaff.

Baylor has fallen on hard times this autumn and rests in the cellar where the Owls were supposed to finish. The Bears are 0-6 and desperately need a victory.

"We need something with a good taste to end the season on," Teaff says.

Rice is 3-3 and a touchdown

Southern Methodist, should Rice lose to Baylor, could tie Arkansas for third place with a 3-3-1 record if the Owls lose and the Mustangs defeat Texas Christian in Dallas Saturday. Arkansas has finished the season.

SMU is a two touchdown pick over the luckless Horned Frogs who will be playing their last game under Coach Billy Tohill.

Tohill was fired with two weeks to go in the season effective with the SMU game.

TCU is 1-5 for the SWC season.

The SWC season will not officially end Saturday because Texas meets Nebraska New Year's Day in the Cotton Bowl and Texas Tech plays Tennessee in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 29.

Bowling Team Impressive In Beaumont Tourney Win

A&M's bowling team will continue Texas Intercollegiate Bowling Congress competition in January with improved standing.

The Aggies are third in the seven-team league. Their next TIBC match comes Jan. 19 at the University of Houston.

The team boosted its overall record to 14-10 with an 8-1 performance Saturday at Beaumont. Led by Bill Kettler and Doug Ocker, they went 3-0 against both Trinity and UT-Austin and posted a 2-1 result against SFA.

Kettler and Ocker rolled 199 nine-game averages in the week-end tourney hosted by Lamar University. Hal Vorland averaged 191 and Mitch Smith 178. Artie Tanamachi had a six-game 178 average.

The team also includes Richard Neevski.

Current TIBC standings have UH first, Trinity second and A&M third.
