High School Competition

High school students will compete for all-state honors in engineering drawing through a TAMU-sponsored contest. The 32nd Texas State Drawing Competition is a mail-in contest conducted by the Engineering Design Graphics Department. Students have until mid-March to complete drawings for entry in one of five divisions. Each school will select the best three drawings per division for final judging.

Cyclotron Colloquium

A Communist-educated research scientist, now working at California Institute of Technology, will be guest speaker in a Cyclotron Institute Colloquium session Friday.

Dr. Petr Vogel, who received degrees in Czechoslovakia and Russia, will discuss "Muon Interaction in Muonic Atoms" at 3:30 p.m. in Room 221 of the Cyclotron Building.

Highway Changes

Texas highway district engineers were told here Wednesday that the department faces massive changes in the future as a result of the energy crisis. Meeting for the 47th annual

Short Course in Highway Engineering, transportation engineers heard the state's top highway official contend a return to the old days of highway engineering is in the offing.

Welding Society

Representatives of the Houston section of the American Welding Society will visit here Thursday to present library materials to the Engineering Technology Department. Four chapter members, headed by M. A. Froehlich, chief inspector for Mosher Steel Co. in Houston, will present more than $250 in society publications to Dr. Daryle W. Morgan, associate professor of engineering technology.

Engineer Awards

A Houston-based urban planning engineer and an assistant district highway engineer from Fort Worth were presented top awards by the Texas Highway Department at the 47th Annual Highway Short Course. Oliver F. Stork, urban planning engineer in THD's Houston Urban Project office, received the Dewitt C. Greer Award and Robert A. Brown, assistant district engineer at Fort Worth, was awarded the Gibb Gilchrist Award.
