SAN ANTONIO — Scores of citizens, prompted by a radio talk show personality, showed their irritation at rising utility bills by staging their own version of the Boston Tea Party here Thursday.

They dumped scores of tea bags into the laps of city councilmen at the council's weekly meeting.

The demonstration climaxed a week of protests which took the form of mailing tea bags to City Hall.

AUSTIN — Texas' best hope for turning convicts into law-abiding citizens are hometown rehabilitation programs, the director of the state prison system told a legislative committee Thursday.

But W. J. Estelle Jr. warned against such programs being hastily set up without enough funds — "It could touch off a backlash that would set the criminal justice system back years."

WASHINGTON — Senate Democrats expressed support for a proposal to roll back the price of domestic crude oil. The support was voiced at a closed party caucus, senators reported.

The Arts Films Series will feature another new series, Three Festivals of Directors' Movies, which begins next Tues. at 8 p. m. in the University Center Theater.

Ingmar Bergman's "That's the Touch" is the first in this series and four more of his movies will be featured in February.

ter by the caucus was delayed pending hearings by the Senate Finance Committee.

Meanwhile, the Democratic senators moved to force action next week on the emergency energy bill, which was left pending when Congress recessed for Christmas.

WASHINGTON — In a special message to Congress, President Nixon proposed more money for education programs ranging from preschool Head Start to college student aid.

He urged further consolidation of some education categorical aid programs into broad grant authorities and offered to increase federal aid to elementary and secondary education by $180 million next year.

WASHINGTON — A White House spokesman said he was not prepared to discuss at this time a report about President Nixon's income taxes.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler was asked about an Associated Press report in which Nixon was described by a White House source as seemingly disposed to pay California income taxes for recent years — a step that could lead to filing amended federal tax returns.

WASHINGTON — Egil Krogh Jr., former head of the so-called White House plumbers, was sentenced to serve six months in prison for the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

He is the first top-level former White House staffer to be sent to prison.

Krogh had pleaded guilty to a single count of violating the psychiatrist's civil rights. At one time Krogh was an assistant to John D. Ehrlichman, President Nixon's domestic adviser, when he was assigned to head the White House special investigation unit nicknamed the plumbers.

Vietnam war 'stands for something'

BABYLON, N. Y. (P) — The Vietnam war one year after. In a distant Saigon classroom the study of current events. In Babylon Junior High School, the study of history.

But history with a sting. Sharon Bray, 13: "The one thing I remember most was I was at my friend's house and she found out her cousin died and everyone was crying."

Grace Friedell, 13: "I remember looking at the newspaper in the morning and seeing a list of men who died or who were missing."

Junior high pupils were not yet in their teens when pens touched paper in Paris and signed a contract ending fighting by Americans in Vietnam.

"But throughout your lifetime, there was such a thing as a Vietnam war," teacher Katina Chapski tells her class on a drizzly morning in this New York City suburb. "Looking back now, what are your feelings about it?"

"It was really senseless, because I don't see there was any reason for us to get into it" answers Fred Gilbert, a slight, dark-haired boy. "It was another country and it was their battle and they could have fought it themselves."

Blonde Sally Solat adds: "It's hard to say whether it was right or wrong. It saved a lot of people, but a lot of other people died. It's hard to say."

Was it right? Did it accomplish anything? How many died? What did it do to the United States? How did it start?

The discussion continues, the 22 boys and girls responding as Mrs. Chapski prods them with questions. Of the 19 who prepared answers in advance 13 say they think the war accomplished nothing.

There's still fighting, Charles Albanese says, he knows because he asked someone. Sam Rodrigues says his brother and six of his cousins fought in Vietnam and all consider it a waste. Thaddeus Vaughn wonders why the leaders of each country couldn't have slugged it out. Marias Cotto feels it stopped the Communists and taught them a lesson.

"What is the one thing you remember most about the Vietnam war?" Mrs. Chapski asks.

"The release of the POWs," answers Curtiss Schaefer, and a current of agreement ripples through the class.

Then others answer. One boy remembers his family gathered around the television set to hear President Nixon announce the cease fire. Doug Downs recalls North Vietnam's torture of U. S. prisoners. Teresa Phillips remembers the death of her stepbrother in combat.

Should the United States help

South Vietnam again if asked? The answers vary—America has a responsibility it should send supplies but no troops, it depends on what other powers do, it would only mean more war.

"And now this very important question," Mrs. Chapski says as the class period nears its end. "Do you think there will ever be a time when the world will be at peace?"

Most of the students say among them Jimmy Hughes' long as there are two on earth, one will have something the other one wants and the going to have a disagreement.

Kam McCully disagrees. "We are caused by greed," she explains "and in the future, because of shortages, it won't be possible to be greedy. Every country has to depend on others."

And the Vietnam war? they remember?

"I think the war is just going to fade off into history like the other wars now that we've got it as fast as people who don't have family in it. But just leave."

"We shouldn't forget the war because it stands for something," says Marie Cotto as the bell sounds. "It stands for one wanting what the other has..."

Fraternity begins spring rush bash

All the rushing in College Station isn't to class. The local chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon is expecting at least 90 applicants during their Jan. 21 through Feb. 2 rush. Get-acquainted parties for rushes are Monday, Jan. 28, seven to nine p.m. at the Elk's Lodge, 304 Mobile Avenue, and Wednesday evening seven to nine p.m. at the fraternity house, 2600 Todd.

Sigma Phi Epsilon sponsors social gatherings for members, pledges, and the Girls of the Golden Heart, the little sister organization. Also on the fraternity's agenda are service projects such as donations to the March of Dimes and the Brazos County Rehabilitation Center, and making spirit signs for football and basketball games.

The local chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon was founded in 1965 as the Phi Delta Sigma social fraternity. As a chapter with no national affiliation, the fraternity was "colonized" in 1972 by the national Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity. On March 31, 1973, the A&M chapter became one of over one hundred thirty-three chapters across the nation.

Prospective applicants should attend the fraternity's rushing parties. Any questions should be directed to Jeff Pollicoff, rush chairman, at 822-4315.

HUNG-UP DEPARTMENT:

WHAT'S BEYOND IT?
IS IT LOCKED?

Sure, these are the questions a door raises.

Jesus once said, "I am the door." His teachings have opened for millions a more meaningful, purposeful and satisfying life.

Yet people still get hung up on the questions of a locked door and what's behind it. The atheist says there's nothing beyond the door. The agnostic says we'll never know because it's locked. And the spiritually-hesitant just say, "I wish I knew..."

Sheer logic says try the knob. Common sense says grasp it firmly and turn. Those who have say it's amazing what rewards we discover with one twist of human initiative:

It's like going to church next Sunday when you haven't been there in years.
