USL hands Aggies first losses

Thomas loses pitcher duel on two-run error

For the first time this season the powerful bats of the Texas Aggie baseball team were silenced as the University of Southwestern Louisiana swept both ends of a doubleheader 2-0 and 7-6.

Clint Thomas

Carl Meche handled the Aggie power, giving up just three hits and walking none in picking up the win.

A&M's Clint Thomas and Meche were locked up in a classic pitchers duel. Neither hurler gave up an earned run. The Cajuns took advantage of a bases loaded, two out error by shortstop David Buxkamper in the fifth inning for the only scoring of the opening contest.

Thomas went the distance for A&M, also giving up just three hits. He stands 3-1 on the season.

In the second game, the Ags jumped to a 5-0 lead but USL rallied for four runs in the fourth and two in the fifth to finish the sweep.

A&M scored four runs in the first inning, sending eight men to the plate. Catcher Mike Frazier struck the crowning blow of the inning, cleaning the bases with a triple, scoring Fred Russ and Mike Schraeder. Russ also knocked in two runs with a towering double to left.

A&M picked up another run in the second as Buxkamper took advantage of a Cajun error and wild pitch to score after being walked.

However, A&M's lead was short lived as USL pounded out four hits, scoring four runs.

Coach Tom Chandler, still searching for new talent to bolster the Aggie pitching staff, tossed two freshman hurlers at the Cajuns. The fish were treated rudely by the visitors batters.

USL batted around in that disastrous fourth inning and added another eight in the fifth before Jimmy Juhl snuffed out the fire. Juhl, with a save and a win under his belt from the Baylor series, faced just eight batters in the last two innings while striking out three.

A&M never mounted a rally in the last three innings as Kenneth Hensgens got the last seven Aggies out in order.

USL, the Southland Conference winner the last two years, is now 4-7 on the season.

A&M stands 11-2, 3-0 in SWC play. This weekend they return to conference action against SMU in Dallas.

Girls capture fifth at NTSU tourney

Ponytails flew in G. Rollie White Coliseum last night as the A&M Girls Basketball team outscrambled an aggressive bunch from Texas to win 52-39.

The Ags spent a great deal of time on the floor Tuesday chasing loose balls and wrestling for rebounds.

Center Css Auclair lost the argument with the refs but managed to win on the boards and ended the game with 17 points.

A controversy stirred when Auclair was awarded a two-shot personal and a technical foul for getting rough with the ball while a teasp was attached to the other end. The referees had to check the rule book and still could not satisfactorily explain the call.

Texas' male coach was perturbed with Auclair's attitude. "That's just not ladylike," he commented.

Bonnie Guedin added nine points. Dana Callaway pitched in outside scoring ability for 10 points and Cindy Horton did the necessary quarterbacking in leading the Aggies to the win.

A&M's defense kept the Longhorns helpless through most of the game. Callaway was instrumental in several turnovers while Ruth Whiteley and Pam Moulton kept the ball under A&M's basket with timely passes and assists.

The Aggies led at halftime 39-27. The 'Horns came back strong to narrow that margin to four before putting on the steam to pull away.

Coach Kay Don said, "It got a little rough out there but once the girls settled down they controlled the game real well."

The girls, now 5-8 after a slow start, had just returned from Denton before hosting Texas. The Ags were victorious in three of their four matches to take fifth place in the North Texas State Tournament.

A&M defeated SMU 65-22 in the first game. Bonnie Guedin took high point honors for the Ags with 18 as the girls had four players in double figures. Callaway and Moulton had 14 each and Auclair had 11.

Auclair was the Ags only scorer

CISSY AUCLAIR (24) hits two of her 17 points in leading the A&M's women basketball team to a 52-39 win over UT last night.
