Voting held today

City and school board elections and final registration for the May primaries take place this week. City elections are today from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Voting places include South Knolls School, A&M Consolidated Middle School Music Room, College Station Fire Station, the first floor of the Memorial Student Center and the Old

City Hall.

Voters must register by Thursday to be eligible to vote in the state primaries May 4. Present registrations are valid if a ballot was cast within the last three years.

Voters new to the area should register with the county tax assessor-collector or a deputized person. Those who have changed addresses within the county must notify the tax assessor-collector.

School Board elections will be April 6, with polls open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. The polling place is the A&M Consolidated Middle School Music Room. Running for Position 3 are Andrew W. Ray, Charles Marie Smith Peterson and Jon S. Botsford.

Candidates for Position 4 are O. C. Cooper Jr., Neil Nutall, Jr., and Joseph Natowitz. Position 5 candidates are William B. Lancaster, Walter J. Dorsey, Willy H. Leighton and Lynn C. Glasen.

Absentee voting for the primaries begins at the county clerk's office April 14 and closes April 30. Applications for absentee voting must be in the clerk's office no later than April 30 at 5 p.m. and notarized ballots must be mailed and postmarked no later than midnight May 3.

Art film committee

The Arts Film sub-committee made the mistake of over-spending their allotted rotating budget of $3,000. They also did not request additional budget allotments from the Council or consult the staff on film orders.

The old MSC structures were partially to blame. There was at least three student overseers between Hal Gaines, student programs adviser, and sub-committee heads. A constitutional revision took care of this problem.

A complex finance system dealing with rotating budgets (where programs must pay for themselves) and a confusing division of responsibility between the Fiscal Office and the Student Finance Office didn't help matters for the Arts, Film sub-committee.

In addition, Manning and the MSC staff didn't work well together because of basic idea conflicts.

Next year may bring a separate Arts Film Committee, said Davis, Aggie Cinema has a plan to incorporate the program into its structure by organizing a special election board for the director's films and midnight films.

THREE FILMS have been canceled which were part of the original series. "The Sunday films," "The King of Hearts" and "The Beauty and the Beast" were canceled because Sunday showings don't turn the necessary profit," said James Randolph, assistant to Gaines.

"Tillicut's Follies" has also been canceled because of a conflict with AggieCon, Cepheid Variable's annual science fiction conference.

"The film was not ordered because no information was available to Gaines," said Manning. "He would not order the film and it had to be appealed to the Council. By the time the appeal came through, it was too late to place a confirmation for the film with the film company. Randolph was asked to place the confirmation two to three weeks ago, but failed to do so. Now the film's unavailable," Manning said.

"Follies" is considered an important film as it deals with life in an insane asylum.

"It's a really good study in a certain aspect of human behavior," said Manning.

"PINK FLAMINGOS" the film which caused the most controversy for the series, may yet be shown on campus. After the MSC decided it couldn't show the film, the American Civil Liberties Union became interested in doing so.

Whether or not they will be allowed to show the film in the University Center is in question, and has been since Friday when the ACLU went to pick up a permission letter from Dr. John Koldus and were told there were "complications."

The ACLU meets with Koldus, vice-president of student services, today.

Editor applications

Applications for 1974-75 editor of The Battalion and the AggieLand, as well as summer editor of The Battalion, will be accepted in Room 221 of the Reed McDonald Services Building through April 22.

Applicants must have a year of experience in student publications and be free of scholastic or conduct probations. The positions are salaried.

The editors will be chosen by the Student Publications Board later in the year; the selections must be approved by Jack Williams, TAMU System president.

Houston columnist

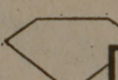

Houston Post columnist Lynn Ashby will be on campus Wednesday.

At noon, Ashby will speak in Rooms 225-26 of the Memorial Student Center on "Secrecy in Government." The Political Forum presentation is free to all.

A native of Dallas, Ashby has been an assistant editor and a general assignment reporter for the Post. He also worked for the New York Times for 6½ years.
