Don is a 30-year-old bachelor who says that men and women are equally attractive to him. He has had affairs with both.

Lydia and Don and hundreds of other people today call themselves bisexual. To Don it means "to be able to seek out a sex and love partner totally on the basis of human feeling as opposed to gender.'

Bisexuality has become a hot topic these days. Many shrug it off as a fad, but psychiatrists debate the lifestyle as intensely as they do homosexuality.

No matter what the professional opinion, certain notables past and present have espoused and declared their bisexuality, including Alexander the Great, Napoleon, Julius Caesar-of whom it is said, "He was every woman's man and every man's woman." This generation's proponents include feminist Kate Millett, rock star David Bowie, actress Maria Schneider, star of "Last Tango in Paris," and the late Janis Jop-

Dr. Wardell Pomeroy, a psychiatrist who worked with Dr. Alfred Kinsey, believes there are true bisexuals—he prefers to call them "pansexuals, people who have the capacity to develop sex-

Nixon's reception

And in Saginaw, he reemphasized to a predominantly white audience his opposition to school busing and to any interference with local schools.

He greeted Air Force Capt. Robert Abbott of Deckerville, Mich., and said: "For the first time in 12 years we have peace. For the first time in 25 years not one young American is being drafted. Every American is home where he belongs, not in a prison camp in Hanoi."

There were demonstrators at every stop, particularly in Sandusky. They waved placards with such legends as "Impeach the Thief," "Nixon Coddles Criminals," and "Jail to the Thief."

Nixon alluded to that when he noted at Cass City that Sparling "is not just against, but for."
