

Appointees OK'd for academic affairs

Four new key positions have been created in TAMU's academic affairs division to insure maximum coordination and direction for its expanding programs, announced Dr. John C. Calhoun Jr., vice president for academic affairs.

The organizational changes initiated by Dr. Calhoun were approved Tuesday by the Board of Directors upon recommendation of President Jack K. Williams.

Student reform positions

Committees will be organized under Academic Affairs before the end of the semester.

Students interested in joining a committee should apply before May 8 in the Student Government Office. The committees will have no affiliation with the administration or faculty and will be directly responsible to Jeff Dunn, vice president for Academic Affairs.

Committees will work on the continuation and implementation of faculty evaluation procedures, choice of professors, summer school abroad programs, academic lectures programs and educational reforms.

These reforms include a broadening of financial aid programs and new innovative courses.

vide a clearer division of work among those who head major segments of our program in academic affairs and will make possible more detailed attention in coordinating programs at the university level," Dr. Calhoun explained.

Wainerdi and Monroe have been serving as assistant vice presidents for academic affairs.

Dr. Calhoun said Dr. Wainerdi's primary responsibilities will include academic program development and coordination of the varied activities within the academic affairs division.

Dean Monroe will be responsible for general supervision of faculty recruiting and hiring policies, tenure considerations, promotions and related matters of faculty concern, Dr. Calhoun noted. He said Dr. Monroe also will be involved in matters dealing with undergraduate degree programs and classroom operations.

Dr. McCandless, who has served as associate dean of liberal arts and also headed the university's self-study program, will be responsible for a continuing planning schedule and planning details for the academic program and its resources. One facet of this position will involve analysis of space requirements and space allocations for the academic program.

Mrs. Miloy will coordinate informational activities related to the university's academic programs. She will supervise educational television and radio activities, direct the preparation of educational publications and assist in coordination of public events. She has been assistant for publications in the Office of the Vice President for Academic Affairs and director of information and special services in the Center for Marine Resources.

The university's academic affairs division includes two other major areas, research and continuing education. Dr. Robert Berg is director of the Office of University Research and James R. Bradley was recently named director of the expanded continuing education program.

Students' need greater for a psychiatrist

A psychiatrist is more in need than a gynecologist, according to Dr. Claude B. Goswick, director of the University Health Center.

"The demand doesn't merit a gynecologist," Goswick said. We are authorized for four staff positions and the need is for a general practitioner, he said.

"The hospital has no plans to hire a gynecologist," said Goswick. "Dr. Benbow a local gynecologist, serves as the University's consultant at no charge to the students. Students are either given an appointment at his office or see him on Tuesday afternoons at the University Health Center.

Presently there are three doctors on the staff since Dr. Powe left and one of these is ill, Goswick said. A new doctor has been hired and will arrive in July. He is a general practitioner with 26 years of experience.

Dr. Goswick said he has applied for a fifth doctor to Dr. John Koldus, vice president for student services. The University of Texas' 40,000 students have 17 doctors approximately four times as many doctors as TAMU, for only about twice the students.

In addition to more doctors, Goswick would like a few other changes. "I would like to see the responsibility of class excuses transferred from the hospital because we have neither the time or personnel to handle the job," he said. "Class excuses should be between the student and the professor."

Precinct meeting Saturday

By MARK WEAVER

Almost anyone who wishes to take an active political role in the Democratic Party of Texas may do so on May 4, primary election day.

Precinct conventions will be held in all polling places across the state. Any person at least 18 years old who has voted in that day's Democratic Primary may participate.

The election judge at the polling place will give a certificate showing who voted Democrat. This serves as an "admission ticket" to the precinct convention.

There are 21 voting precincts in the Bryan-College Station area. Each precinct elects one delegate and one alternate to the county convention for each 25 votes cast in that precinct for the Democratic nominee for Governor in the last General Election.

There will be a polling place at the University Center for anyone registered to vote in Brazos County and living on campus. The convention for that precinct will be held at 7:30 p.m. in Room 301 of the Rudder Tower.

Burl Sumrall, chairman of the University Center precinct, said, "Twelve delegates will be chosen this year from our precinct. These delegates will go to the county convention on May 11."

Sumrall said that by the time of the county conventions, the Democratic nominee for Governor will be known.

"The delegates at the county convention will begin to write the Democratic platform," Sumrall said.

The county conventions will choose 5,000 delegates to the state convention. The state convention will be held on Sept. 17 at the Municipal Auditorium in Austin to elect 76 delegates and 18 alternates to the National Conference on Democratic Party Organization and Policy.

The purpose of the policy conference, to be held in Kansas City, Mo. on Dec. 6, 7 and 8, will adopt a permanent charter for the Democratic Party of the United States. It will also consider other matters authorized by the Democratic National Committee.

College Station precincts are: South Knoll, all area within city limits south of Holleman Street; A&M Consolidated Middle School, the area between Jersey and Holleman streets; College Station Fire Station, the city east of Texas Avenue and College Station Municipal Building, the area north of campus to the city line.

Precinct chairmen are J. B. Hervey, South Knoll; Dr. E. E. Burns, Middle School; Mrs. George H. Draper, Fire Station and Mrs. Robert F. White, Municipal Building.
