

Theater Arts offers youth programs

TAMU's Theater Arts Section offers a creative outlet for youngsters as well as teenagers through its summer theater programs.

For the five to 12-year-olds, separate programs in Children's Creative Dramatics are available in Bryan and College Station. Pre-

Summer swim registration will be tonight

Registration will be at 6:45 p.m. Wednesday for the summer competitive swimming program for boys and girls in the Bryan-College Station area, announced Dr. Bruce Robeck, president of the sponsoring College Station Swim Club.

The sign-up session will be at the Allen School swimming pool, where participants will be working out until completion of the new College Station pool.

The competitive swimming program, which receives support from the College Station Recreation Council, includes age group competitive categories generally corresponding to the public school spectrum.

Dr. Robeck said the summer program includes participation in AAU-sanctioned meets in Houston, Clear Creek, Clear Lake and Tyler.

For additional information, contact Dr. Robeck at 846-1158 or Mrs. Carol Bryant at 846-0278.

mire Players, which gives students experience in drama and a look at theater technology, is open to any teenager in the community.

Both programs are administered through the Theater Arts Section of TAMU's English Department. C. K. Esten, president of the Texas Children's Creative Dramatics and Children's Theater Conference, chairs the section.

In Children's Creative Dramatics, children write and produce their own presentations, with minimum input from adults. Esten said the Bryan-College Station program is the biggest in the state.

Registration for the first session of the Bryan CCD classes will be from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. June 10 in Room 130, Bryan High School. Mrs. Aileen Wenck will conduct the program.

James B. Dennis is instructor of the College Station CCD program. First session registration will be Saturday, June 8 from 9 a.m. to 12 noon at South Knoll Elementary School.

College Station classes begin

June 10 and those in Bryan on June 11, with both phases ending July 5.

For the second CCD session in College Station, registration is scheduled for July 13 with classes beginning July 15. Sign up for the second CCD session in Bryan is July 15, with classes starting July 16. Both sessions run through August 9.

Registration for the Premiere Players will be Monday, June 10 in the Forum of TAMU's Rudder Center. Robert Wenck will conduct the Premiere Players program.

Classes are tentatively scheduled for 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. each weekday beginning June 11, Esten said. The session runs through July 13, and will be highlighted by the production of the comedy, "Two Blind Mice."

July 15 is the sign up date for the second session of Premiere Players classes. Premiere Players activities begin July 16 and end August 17. Participants in the second session will produce "Love Rides the Rails."

All three programs require a $5 registration fee.

Venezuela asks A&M profs to assist in delta oil studies

Geoscientists have been asked by the Venezuelan government to assist in marine-related studies of a delta area with oil potential.

A major portion of the TAMU phase of the project will involve the marine environment.

The TAMU team is composed of a meteorologist, Dr. George Huebner, an oceanographer, Dr. Arnold Bouma, and an oceanography graduate student, Gary Hall of Seguin.

The overall project is expected to begin in August and last six months to a year. The three men have already spent two weeks in the South American country meeting with governmental officials and conducting preliminary work.

Studies will center on the delta area of the Orinoco River which empties into the Atlantic south of the island of Trinidad.
