

Falls in consolation game

Errors plague fem softballers in tourney

By MARY RUSSO

The women softballers will meet Sam Houston State University at Bryan's Haswell Park at 7, tonight.

Coming off the Texas Women's University Invitational tournament last weekend, the women are working on their big weakness, errors.

The women went into the 14-team tourney with high hopes of showing their talents. The first game found the women sluggish until the top of the third inning. At this point things started happening, with the girls starting to put it together.

The final score of the very offensively played game was Texas A&M 14, A&M 13.

This put the team in the consolation bracket against North Texas State. Playing a better mental game, the women took the defensive attack and took the game in the bottom of the sixth with A&M 5, NTS 4.

Winning this game put the women in contention for the consolation trophy. A&M faced Lamar University in this game.

At the bottom of the fifth, the teams were tied at four runs. Lamar came to bat making a run. The A&M players lost their "cool." A&M made a series of errors allowing Lamar to make three runs at the top of the sixth.

A&M was unable to make a run in the sixth and through another set of errors allowed Lamar four more runs. Lamar took the consolation bracket with an 11-4 victory over A&M.

The women will face the rest of their zone, Baylor and Mary Hardin-Baylor, in Waco, Friday. The top two teams from each of the seven zones will compete in the state meet at Stephen F. Austin University, Oct. 18 and 19.
