Kissinger says

CIA to brief House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Foreign Affairs Committee has gained assurances from Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and CIA Director William E. Colby that it will be advised in advance of any future covert operations abroad.

"We wanted to get this first step done," Rep. Dante B. Fascell, D-Fla., a principal proponent of broader House review, said in an interview Wednesday.

"The other issue that ought to be examined now as a matter of national policy is whether our country should be involved in such operations," he said.

Until now, on the House side, the Central Intelligence Agency has briefed only an armed services subcommittee headed by Rep. Lucien Nedzi, D-Mich. As a result, Fascell said, the foreign policy implications of CIA operations such as the activities in Chile against former President Salvador Allende were not reviewed.

"You would know covert activities were occurring, by normal conclusion and osmosis," he said, "but it was not possible for our committee to get the information. We could never get a direct answer."

In hearings last year after Allende was overthrown, Fascell's inter-American subcommittee called State Department and CIA officials. "All of that testimony led to one specific end," Fascell said. "Either the State Department people couldn't tell us or wouldn't tell us. State's response generally was 'you'll have to get it from CIA.' And when Colby testified he said, 'I can't give you that, I can and will give it to the appropriate subcommittee.'

"This whole arrangement has been totally unsatisfactory."

Colby's testimony before the Nedzi panel led to disclosure last month of covert anti-Allende programs in 1946 and from 1969 to 1973. Kissinger heads the supersecret Committee of Forty which gave its approval.

On the Senate side, covert information is given only to a special subcommittee headed by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss.

Instructor writes crime control book

Denny F. Pace, instructor of safety education at TAMU, co-authored a book on controlling organized crime.

It was recently published by Prentice-Hall.

Pace and Jimmie Styles, vice chancellor of Tarrant County Junior College, study the interrelations of organized crime within the social structure, role of the legal system in control.

They also study administrative structures and procedures in crime control agencies, specific vice violations and business operations infiltrated and controlled by criminal interests.

The pair published a "Handbook of Narcotics Control" in 1972 and Pace wrote a "Handbook of Vice Control" in 1971.

Business Administration college receives new faculty members

Dean John E. Pearson reports 14 new faculty members in the College of Business Administration.

Dr. Warren Rose in the Business Analysis and Research Department and Dr. Robert Baird of management are visiting professors this year.

Rose is on leave as chairman of the Transportation and Logistics Management Department at the University of North Florida. Baird is on sabbatical leave from his post as associate dean in the College of Business from the University of Hawaii.

New associate professors are Dr. James Benjamin in accounting and Dr. Gary Richardson in business analysis and research. Benjamin is a graduate of Indiana University. Richardson comes to TAMU from North Texas State University.

Entering freshmen this fall had an average Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) mean total score of 1057, well above the national average.

This increase is seen as significant in light of the university's large enrollment increase this fall. The national average was 924 for 1973-74.

University officials announced earlier this week the student body now includes 129 National Merit Scholars, up 14 from last year when TAMU ranked 17th in the nation in enrollment of these high-achievement students.

BB&L savings accounts vs. stocks and bonds. Guess which is a better hedge against inflation. Guess again.

The belief that common stocks (or long-term Government bonds) preserve capital better than BB&L savings accounts simply isn't true.

In periods of inflation, this presumption is even more erroneous.

The chart below tracks asset (cash-in) values of a $10,000 BB&L savings account, compared to the same amount of Dow Jones average industrial stocks and U.S. Treasury bonds. Note that on very few months in 9 years could an investor pull his savings out of the market without a loss of principal. Throughout the entire period, of course, a BB&L customer could step up to the savings window and withdraw every penny of his investment — plus accrued interest.

BB&L savings accounts returned a greater yield than stocks or bonds, too.

But that's another story.

(Some reports, including Economic Indicators, published by the President's Council of Economic Advisors, express earnings for common stocks in much less favorable terms than indicated here. The case can be stated in a great many ways using different indices, weighted advances and declines, beta factors and regression equations, but simple lines tell the story...)
