How is your $10 Student Center Complex Fee to be used? It is to be used for specific purposes under the Education Code of Texas.

Under the laws of Texas, the student center fee is to be used "for the purpose of operating, maintaining, improving and equipping the Texas A&M Student Center Complex and acquiring or constructing additions to said complex."

Charles Cargill, manager of the University Center is responsible to fulfill the law. His duties include supervising the center, directing the staff of 135 employees and acts as landlord to the groups that maintain offices in the center.

Cargill said the funds received from the Student Center Complex Fee are used for the operation of the center, which includes the MSC, the Rudder Conference Tower and the Theater Complex.

The largest operating cost is the payroll of the full-time workers. Part-time student employees are paid through the Student Employment Office. Other costs are the utilities, office and housekeeping supplies.

The center contains 12 tenants which pay rent and custodial charges. The money received as rent helps defray some of the costs. These tenants are the TAMU Bookstore, the post office, the Student Programs Office, the Former Students Association, the Beverley Braley Travel Service, the Board of Directors, the Food Service's cafeteria (opening soon), the coaches office, the placement office, the continuing education office and the development office.

The Rudder Tower's principal user is the Continuing Education Division. It schedules seminars, discussions and symposiums of interest to the university and the community. Cargill said it isn't charged rent but pays for set-up, projectionists and theater use.

"No rent is charged to university-related groups, but services rendered are charged to the group. We don't charge student groups for the set-up of the facilities," said Cargill.

The collected fees are placed in the Student Center Complex Fee Account. As of Sept. 30, the account contained $194,361 collected from this fall's students.

$11,000 stolen in tobacco

Over $11,000 in cigarettes and cigars were stolen from a storage building in Bryan owned by the P.H.S. Tobacco Co. of Houston between Friday morning and Tuesday.

The warehouse manager, Frank Sikorski, told police over 60 cases of mixed cigarettes and 12 cases of cigars were taken.

The warehouse, located on Stuart Street, had just received a shipment Thursday. Sikorski said he left the building at 8:30 Friday morning and returned Tuesday to see that the lock had been sawed off and the merchandise missing.

Bryan detectives are investigating the incident.

Senate extends deadline

Student groups interested in sending a representative to the International Student Senate Thursday may still do so.

Deadline for the nominees to the Senate was Tuesday, but those clubs who could not make the deadline can still nominate a student representative.

Names of the students who are going to attend should be left with the Foreign Student Advisor in the Academic Building.

Race trip sponsored by club

The motorcycle club will sponsor a trip to the Cameron motocross races Saturday.

The group will leave the MSC at 10 a.m. and return after the races. All interested people should meet about 9:30 a.m. and bring a sack lunch. Beverages will be provided.

Inglis to perform Chaucer's 'Tales'

Geoffrey Chaucer's Canterbury Tales will be presented by the Arts Committee, tonight.

The presentation, at 8 p.m. in the Rudder Theater, will be performed by Australian-born Rob Inglis. Inglis is world renowned for his acting in the theater, both modern and Shakespearian. The past few years Inglis has done his one-man 'Tales' rendition throughout the U.S.

The performance will be done with a bare minimum of actors, Inglis alone, props, four chairs and a table. The show will be in modern English but the costumes will be of the 14th Century.

Selections to be presented are the Prologue, the Wife of Bath's Prologue and her Tale, the Pardoner's, Nun's, Priest's and Miller's Tales, a portion of the Knight's and an excerpt from the Monk's Tale.

Inglis also authored a musical, "A Rum Dol," which received a Royal Command Performance in Australia. "The Hands" written by Inglis, has been aired on the BBC.

Admission will be 50c for students presenting their activity cards and $2 for non-students. Tickets can be obtained at the UC box office or at the door.
