Teaching conference begins

The 21st annual Conference for the Advancement of Science Teaching (CAST) gets underway Thursday. Two Nobel Laureates and a program of sessions and workshops highlight the conclave. Nobel Prize winner Willard Libby, 1960 honoree in chemistry, speaks at 9 a.m. Friday on radiocarbon dating and 1961 Nobel physics winner Robert Hofstadter will report at 10:30 a.m. Saturday on his recent tour of China and observations of teaching, the first such public report since his return. The addresses will be in the Rudder Auditorium. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Video tape programs shown

Video tape program will be presented the next two weeks as a pilot program for the new Video Tape Committee. The programs will be shown at the concourse on the first floor of the MSC. The programs will start each even hour, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. "Earl Scruggs: His Family and Friends" will be shown Nov. 11 through Nov. 15. "TV Madness" will be presented the following week.

Liberal Arts select emblem

A contest to select a permanent emblem to represent the College of Liberal Arts for centennial purposes is being sponsored by the Liberal Arts Student Council. The contest is open to any A&M student, faculty member or employee. Deadline for entries is Dec. 13. For more information contact Karen Arrington at 845-5998, or P. O. Box 2096.

Campus directory available

The 1974-75 campus directory will be ready for distribution next week, said Information and Publications Director Jim Lindsey. Individual copies may be purchased at the Student Publications Office, Texas A&M Book Store, University Book Store and local banks. Copies for campus offices will be available at Student Publications, Lindsey said.

Largest veteran group forming

Veterans at Texas A&M will meet Wednesday to organize what they think will be the largest campus veterans group in the nation. "A group of 20 veterans met last Wednesday to discuss the formation of the organization," said Guy Andrews, a sophomore business management major. "The veterans in attendance are among 1,010 former servicemen currently enrolled at A&M," Andrews said. "Much optimism was displayed by those present concerning the prospects of such an organization on campus, since TAMU has one of the largest groups of veterans in the nation from which to draw new members for the club." The meeting Wednesday will be at 5 p.m. in room 216N of the MSC.

Fraternity sponsors conference

The Department of Accounting and the national professional fraternity of honor students in accounting (Beta Alpha Psi) is sponsoring a Graduate Accounting Conference Nov. 15-16 at Texas A&M. The theme of the conference is "Continuing Education: Your Firm and Your University" and will be held in the J. Earl Rudder Conference Center, beginning at 1 p.m. Panel discussions will center on the roles and relationships of firms and the university in continuing education programs, said a Beta Alpha Psi spokesman. These programs offer continuing professional development to accountants and to individuals with related occupations.

Program to control animals

Texas A&M will host the first "Animal Control Officers Training Program" Nov. 17 for six days. A 1974 survey of complaints shows dog and pet control is the No. 1 problem of city officials. It won hands down over traffic, taxes, crime, housing and drugs.

W-1 women to march in Cotton Bowl

By KANAYA MAHENDRA Staff Writer

"Girls will be in the March-in in the Cotton Bowl," Lt. Theresa Holzmann, instructor and adviser to the women corps outfit, said in an address to the Women's Awareness Group, Thursday night in the Architecture auditorium. Lt. Holzmann says the women in the corps will have their uniforms by January.

Presently there are 42 women in the unit including 2 juniors, 10 sophomores and 30 freshmen.

About 70 per cent of the women live off-campus. Lt. Holzmann said the women will have a dorm by next year. She projects that in six years there will be as many women as men in the corps. But Lt. Lotzmann commented "Women will not be allowed in the band."

When asked how the men feel about women in the corps, Lt. Holzmann said, "The men have a good attitude, they are for it." Lt. Holzmann added that 20 per cent of the men do not understand why women are in the corps.

Lt. Holzmann explained the program the women in the corps follow. She said basically there is no difference, "Girls do everything the men do." In the first two years there is no commitment to be in the military. In the sophomore year the women, if they wish, sign a contract.

The benefits of signing the contract are: they receive uniforms at no cost and one hundred dollars every month after they start their junior year. Also, in summer camp they receive $400 plus travel expenses and insurance benefits.

TCU Chi Omegas send greetings to the Dog Company juniors.

at Richard Barton Volkswagen

At Richard Barton Volkswagen in Bryan, College Station, the only cars we work on are Volkswagens. And when we're not working on them, we're learning about working on them.
