

SMU's Kelcher is honored

Noseguard captures AP eye

DALLAS (AP) — You've probably never heard of a Louis Kelcher hangover.

That's just a Sunday morning in the Southwest Conference after you've faced the Southern Methodist man-mountain noseguard all Saturday afternoon. The 6-foot-5, 270-pound senior from Beaumont, Tex., will apply black-and-blue licks to your body from sideline to sideline if you're near the football and wear something other than SMU red-and-silver.

Just ask Coaches Woody Hayes of Ohio State or Darrell Royal of Texas or Emory Bellard of Texas A&M.

"Kelcher covered the ground from tackle to tackle," said Hayes earlier in the year after the Buckeyes beat the Mustangs. "That was the reason we did not run our full-backs very much."

"Kelcher is so quick for a big man," said Texas quarterback Marty Akins. "He's so strong I tried to block him on a sweep and he knocked me five yards. We laughed at it looking at the films. There I was flying through the air and Kelcher was just running along—I don't think he ever felt me."

"I thought our fullbacks could carry the ball, but Kelcher just clogged up the middle," marveled Royal two weeks ago.

Kelcher made an incredible 16 unassisted tackles and 8 assisted tackles and recovered a fumble Saturday as SMU stunned fifth-ranked Texas A&M 18-14. It earned him The Associated Press National Lineman of the Week award.

"I've never seen a defensive lineman have a greater game in all my years of coaching," said SMU Coach Dave Smith. "He was out there making tackles on reverses, screens. Texas A&M runs a reverse screen and Louie stops the ball carrier for a one-yard gain... unbelievable."

Bellard added "Everywhere we were, there he was. That's one guy we didn't expect to see make a tackle on a screen pass. He was all over the field. He's a heck of a football player."

Kelcher was an All-SWC tackle his sophomore year then his world caved in. He came to school overweight in 1973, 290 pounds and injured an ankle. He went from a possible All-American to nobody.

"I decided I was going to give it everything I had this year and just see what happened," Kelcher said. "The A&M game was the biggest thrill of my life."

Pro scouts are swarming to the SMU workouts. Asked where he thought Kelcher would go in the draft, Smith smiled and held up one finger—first round.

Kelcher has overcome any brand put on him during his junior year that he didn't care about football.

"The next time someone says Louie's not a player, he'll have to answer to me," said John Stanfield, a center for Rice University who had to live with a Sunday after a Saturday across the line from Kelcher.

Upsets riddle top twenty

The Oklahoma Sooners supplanted Ohio State Monday as the No. 1 college football team in the country.

While Ohio State was losing to Michigan State 16-13 on Saturday, Oklahoma trounced Missouri 37-0 and knocked the Buckeyes from the top spot of the weekly Associated Press poll. Ohio State, which had been No. 1 for seven consecutive weeks, fell to fourth behind Oklahoma, Alabama and Michigan.

Oklahoma received 48 first-place votes and 1,198 of a possible 1,240 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

"It's a tremendous honor to be AP's No. 1 team," said Coach Barry Switzer. "We play three good football teams in the next three weeks, and we're gonna try to hold on week by week. We've got the ball now, and it's up to us to carry it."

The Sooners were ranked No. 1 in the preseason poll and through the first week of the regular season, when they did not play. The next week, though, they beat Baylor 28-11 but fell to third. They climbed to second two weeks later and have been runners-up to Ohio State ever since.

Alabama, a 30-0 winner over Louisiana State, received 10 first-place votes and 1,102 points. Michigan earned the other four first-place ballots and 1,014 points following a 14-6 triumph over Illinois.

Then came previously unbeaten Ohio State with 877 points, followed by defending national champion Notre Dame, Nebraska, Auburn, Southern California, Florida and Texas A&M.

Notre Dame, eighth last week, did not play last Saturday. Nebraska climbed from ninth to sixth by defeating Iowa State 23-13. Auburn rose from 10th to seventh with a 24-20 victory over Mississippi State and Southern California jumped from 11th to eighth by routing Stanford 34-10.

Meanwhile, Florida lost to Georgia 17-16 and slipped from sixth to ninth, Texas A&M lost to Southern Methodist 18-14 and dropped from fifth to 10th, and Penn State skidded from seventh to 11th.

Rounding out the Second Team behind Penn State were Miami, Ohio, Maryland, Houston, Michigan State, North Carolina State, Pitt, Oklahoma State, California and Texas Tech.

Michigan State's stunning triumph over Ohio State lifted the Spartans into the Top Twenty for the first time all season.

Baylor wins great upset

WACO, Tex., (AP) — Baylor Coach Grant Teaff said Monday his team's win over Texas "was a great one for the school and the entire Baylor family, but we've got to get this out of our mind and start preparing for Texas Tech."

"We know if we are going to get in a bowl we've got to win them all," Teaff said of Saturday's game against Texas Tech. "We've got another big shootout on our hands. Tech rates up there with Texas, Texas A&M and SMU in ability, size and muscle."

SEVEN SAMURAI (MAGNIFICENT SEVEN)
Directed by Kurosawa; Japanese with English subtitles

TUES., NOV. 12
8:00 pm

The action takes place in 16th century Japan, in a small farming village. Year after year, marauding bandits have raided the community, taking their crops and their women. The village elder decides that the farmers must take some defensive action. Seven unemployed and hungry samurai are hired to help the villagers defend themselves. Eventually, after a great deal of fighting, the village successfully wards off the bandits' attacks.
