Campus briefs

SMU law reps visit campus

Representatives from the SMU School of Law will be on the Texas A&M University campus from 1-4 p.m. Thursday to discuss possible futures in law.

The Southern Methodist delegates will hold their discussions in room 510 of Rudder Tower. Entrance requirements, professional opportunities, courses and scholarships will be topics covered.

SDX sponsors program

Representatives of Center Magazine and the Aadvark Advertising Agency will tell the story of their inception and growth in a program Nov. 18.

The program will be held in room 607 of the Rudder Tower and is sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi, the Society of Professional Journalists. Center Magazine is a local publication and serves as a guide to Bryan and College Station.

NSF accepts fellowship applications

Preliminary applications are being requested for National Science Foundation Graduate Fellowships in 1975-76.

The fellowships are awarded for study or work leading to masters or doctoral degrees in the mathematical, physical, medical, biological, engineering, and social sciences and the history and philosophy of science.

Preliminary application materials for the competition are available from: The Fellowship Office, National Research Council, 2101 Constitution Ave., NW, Washington, D. C. 20418.

Diamond Century Club holds dinner

The Diamond Century Club will honor its members at a dinner Friday at the Aggeland Inn.

University President Jack K. Williams and Richard Weirus, executive director of the Association of Former Students, will be on the program for the event.

Membership in the Diamond Century Club is based upon donation of $1,000 or more to the annual fund which is utilized by the Association of Former Students to support several TAMU programs.

New Earth Catalog for changing culture

SAUSALITO, Calif. (AP) — The man who brought you "The Last Whole Earth Catalog" is now bringing you another how-to-do-it titled, aptly enough, "Whole Earth Epilog." He says it reflects changes in the counterculture it chronicles.

"Five years later, we find the counterculture and others are a lot more sophisticated," says Stewart Brand, who compiled both books. "There are still a lot of our readers who are into communes . . . but many others are now interested in building communities and . . . running for town council. So we've got pages and pages on things like sewage, my God!"

Like its predecessor which won a National Book Award, the new 319-page catalogue covers trends from embroidery and furniture making to home building and vegetable growing.

Brand says his readers are more interested these days in gardening than drugs. "They want to know how to grow their veggies on roofs, window sills and any little ground the sun shines on."

There is a new section on winemaking with recipes "as good as or better than anything you can buy," he says. "There's also added 'I did it myself' ingredients the real mark of the counterculture."

Other sections deal with interests and travel.

"Interest in India, the pilgrimage to holy places and all that, seems to be dimming. Enthusiasm is turning to Peru and South America generally. People are also trying to find their way into China."

The new volume is 100 pages shorter and costs $1 less than the original catalogue, which was $5. Like the old catalogue, this one is printed on oversized paper with a cover photo of the rising sun seen from the moon.

Penguin Books' initial press of "Epilog" was 350,000 copies; an additional 100,000 copies are ordered.

BB&L savings accounts vs. stocks and bonds.

Guess which is a better hedge against inflation. Guess again.

The belief that common stocks (or long-term Government bonds) preserve capital better than BB&L savings accounts simply isn't true.

In periods of inflation, this presumption is even more erroneous.

The chart below tracks asset (cash-in) values of a $10,000 BB&L savings account, compared to the same amount of Dow Jones average industrial stocks and U.S. Treasury bonds. Note that on very few months in 9 years could an investor pull his savings out of the market without a loss of principal. Throughout the entire period, of course, a BB&L customer could step up to the savings window and withdraw every penny of his investment — plus accrued interest.

BB&L savings accounts returned a greater yield than stocks or bonds, too.

But that's another story.

SOURCE: U.S. Savings & Loan League and the Investment Company Institute. (Some reports, including Economic Indicators, published by the President's Council of Economic Advisors, express earnings for common stocks in much less favorable terms than indicated here. The case can be stated in a great many ways using different indices, weighted advances and declines, beta factors and regression equations, but simple lines tell the story . . .)
