APO smoker

Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, is holding a pledge smoker Thursday at 7 p.m. in room 228 of the Library.

APO co-sponsors several service projects with Omega Phi Alpha, the national service sorority, and Student Government. They include the Aggie Blood Drive, Community Clean Up, and the Campus Chest.

APO is open to all college men. If you are interested but cannot attend Thursday's meeting, come by the APO booth in the Student Programs Office in the MSC.

... and OPA rush

Omega Phi Alpha, national service sorority, is holding its annual spring rush Thursday.

Girls interested in serving Texas A&M and the community should come to rooms 228 - 229 in the MSC at 7:30 p.m. Thursday to meet other girls and find out more information about OPA.

Contractors to meet

The student chapter of the Association of General Contractors will hold its first meeting of the semester Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in room 110 of the Architecture Building.

Part of the AGC's activities include field trips and speakers, as well as scholarship opportunities for student members. There are also social activities where students and professors can meet and become better acquainted.

Wednesday's featured speaker is Robert Hoover, executive vice president of the Waco chapter of the AGC.

For further information contact the Building Construction office or Gene Doss (822-6230), Dave Fleming (846-0165) or Louis Daly (846-0844).

Students with opinions on the Student Pub will have a chance to voice them.

A question and answer session will be held tonight at 8 in room 701 of Rudder Tower.

Answering questions for the administration will be Dr. John Koldus, vice president for student affairs.

Speaking for the student pub will be Bill Davis, president of the MSC, and speaking against it will be Louie Gohmert, president of the Senior Class.

Student Radio meets

A chance for news dissemination is open to everyone through TAMU Student Radio newscasting.

A meeting for those interested will be held Thursday in room E of the Student Programs Office at 7:30 p.m.

No experience is necessary. All approaches to news will be welcomed.

Campus and Bryan-College Station news will be summarized in the daily 6 p.m. news program.

Keep America cheap

Keeping the American economy economical is the theme of a productivity conference at Texas A&M University Wednesday.

The two-day gathering is the second in a series relating to increased production. This section is entitled "Plant Layout, Materials Handling and Warehousing/Distribution Conference." The series is sponsored by the Texas Engineering Experiment Station for industrial managers and executives of industrial firms in Texas.

"This conference is intended to identify potential production improvement opportunities in specific areas," said Dr. Richard E. Thomas, associate dean of the College of Engineering.

The national cast of speakers features Ruddell Reed, Jr., professor of engineering at Purdue University, who will present the keynote address at noon.

Refrigerators for rent

Final days for renting refrigerators will be Thursday and Friday.

Some 70 machines are available. Rental is $21, and a deposit of $10 is charged. Total cost is $31. Delivery charge is $2.

Rental times on Thursday are 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. and Friday 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Student fee wasted

Student Center Complex fees paid by students are currently being wasted by groups that do not notify the University Center (UC) of their meeting cancellations.

The Student Center Complex Fee is a $10 charge per semester levied on students for the upkeep of the UC and the Memorial Student Center (MSC).

UC Manager Charles Cargill said the money spent from the complex fee, for setting up and cleaning of rooms is, "wasted money when they (the student groups) don't use it (the scheduled room)."

Both Cargill and UC Scheduling Manager Carmon Tax said the problem of cancellations is not great, at the present time.

However, increasing use of the UC will bring about solid booking, said Cargill. Bookings cancelled without notifying the UC staff would then deprive other groups of the use of the facilities.

The meetings that are "blocked out" are usually the source of cancellations without UC staff knowledge, said Tax. "Blocking out" is the practice of scheduling a group's meetings a semester in advance.

Two types of cancellations are received by the scheduling office. Usually, the group will call if they plan to cancel. Others cancel without notifying the staff, thus causing unnecessary room preparations.

"Sometimes it's the day after the meeting that we notice a cancellation," said Tax. He explained the night crew usually informs him of a cancelled meeting when they arrive at work the next day.

The weekly schedule of events, printed by the UC staff, is strictly tentative and usually doesn't include late cancellations, said Tax.

Tax added, the clubs and committees are responsible for the announcement of when and where their meetings are being held and not the UC staff.

At present, the students and university staff and faculty don't pay for the use of the center facilities. The only groups paying for the use of rooms and services are the conferences and the short courses offered by the extension service and the continuing education program.

The rates for rooms vary with the size, ranging from $2 to $36 in the Rudder Tower and the MSC. Theater Complex, including the auditorium, theater and forum, rates are $25 to $65 per hour.

Labor charges, in the Rudder Tower, are three dollars for laborers and $6 for electrician/projectionists.

Although student groups aren't charged for labor or room rental in the conference tower, Cargill said, the cost of setting up the room is approximately the same as the cost for conference set-ups.

The budget for the 1975 fiscal year anticipates a total income to the UC of $760,000. Of this figure, $400,000 will come from the Student Center Complex fee. The remainder will come from room and space rental from conference groups.

Expenditures will equal this year's income, according to figures supplied by Cargill.

Up-to-date information on daily events can be obtained from the television monitors spread throughout the Rudder Tower. This system of monitors will be expanded into the MSC in the future.
