Bomb booms

Indochina protest

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bomb exploded in an elevator shaft in the State Department headquarters here early today, District of Columbia police said.

There were no injuries reported, the D.C. fire department said.

The explosion came about an hour after news media around the country were notified by a caller claiming to represent the "Weather Underground Organization" that some kind of damage would be done to the State Department and to a Defense Department installation in Oakland, Calif.

The caller indicated the bomb was intended to protest U.S. involvement in Vietnam and Cambodia.

The male voice directed The Associated Press to a typed 12-page statement in a telephone booth on the street near the AP's bureau offices.

That statement elaborated on the theme of U.S. involvement in Indochina and criticized the State Department's Agency for International Development. The statement asserted that AID directed $450 million in aid to the South Vietnamese regime this year and was used to keep President Thieu in power.

The funds were used to improve and expand the South Vietnamese prison system and train police and prison guards, the statement said.

AP newsmen here and in San Francisco immediately notified the FBI and local police authorities after receiving the telephone call.

The written statement was headed by a rough drawing of a man with a lightning bolt through his head. The "Weather Underground Organization" was believed to be an offshoot of the Weatherman group that was involved in occasional violence during the late 1960s, at the height of the domestic turmoil directed against the Vietnam war.

The group was believed to have disbanded in the early 1970s and had political activity subsided in the United States.

Septic waste still stands

It's gettin' awful deep

PRAIRIE VIEW (AP) — Draining sewage stands inches deep in sections of Prairie View while the city government is virtually halted and actions to remedy the sewer problems are blocked by a city council political dispute.

A 10-month-old Texas State Department of Health report said septic tank wastes are standing in ditches and form ponds in yards in the city which has sewer lines to only a third of its residents.

The city council, meanwhile, is unable to take action on a new sewer line system despite a $750,000 grant from the Environmental Protection Agency.

Mayor Eristus Sams said the council cannot let bids without a vote of a quorum of the city council. And three of the five councilmen have not attended a council meeting since June 24.

Prairie View has a population of about 3,600, about half of whom are Prairie View A&M students.

The city council membership is being disputed in lawsuits challenging various elections.

In an election last April, Sams defeated councilman Donald Sowell for the mayor's job by 16 votes. Two council positions were also filled in the election, but the validity of the vote is being challenged in court.

Sowell, who narrowly lost the mayor's race, filed a suit claiming the polls closed early because of a shortage of ballots. A district court judge ruled in his favor and ordered new elections.

Sams appealed and the 14th Court of Civil Appeals will hear the appeal Wednesday. Thus, the city council remains in office.

But Sowell and two other councilmen, Herman T. Jones and Dr. E. B. Evans, former Prairie View A&M president, have not attended the monthly council meetings.

After six council meetings without a quorum, Sams declared the seats vacant and ordered a special election. Sowell, Jones and Evans filed suit, and a judge blocked the election and set a hearing for Feb. 3.

In effect, city government in the town is paralyzed until court action resolves the dispute.

Meanwhile, two-thirds of the town's residents are living with the problem of toilets that don't flush, sinks that don't drain and bathtubs that fill with backed-up sewage.

Mickey's union? Nope, says judge

Higgins hit by vehicle on Jersey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mickey Mouse says kids kick his shins. The Big Bad Wolf says his ears get pulled, and it hurts.

But the National Labor Relations Board ruled Tuesday that just because Mickey and his friends at Disney World occasionally run into some nasty kids, is not reason enough for the Disney characters to have their own union.

Mickey, the Wolf, Snow White, Br'er Fox and some 60 others at the Florida amusement park petitioned to form a unit of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees and Motion Pictures Operators, AFL-CIO.

Their employers suggested they be included in an operators-service unit which represents nearly everyone else employed at the park, including the people who well hot dogs, guide tourists and change hotel beds.

Taking their case to the NLRB, the comic characters argued that they have special problems which only their own union could understand and fight to solve.

The characters said their job puts them at the mercy of visiting children, who often kick and tug on their costumes, and requires them to shake hands and pose for pictures with the tourists.

They cited "a higher incidence of minor first-aid problems" than experienced by the park's other employees. The Big Bad Wolf, for example, complained that kids pull on his ears, which are attached to a heavy mask, and that this hurts his real ears.

Working in the hot sun, with the heavy costumes, they argued, also sets them apart because they have a special schedule — half-an-hour on and half-an-hour off for eight-hour shifts.

But the NLRB wasn't convinced. In dismissing their petition on final appeal the board ruled that "the 'characters' are not actors; they do not constitute a craft.

Texas A&M soccer star John Higgins was injured Tuesday afternoon as he crossed Jersey Street to retrieve a soccer ball.

Higgins was hit by a car as he bent over to pick up the ball. After being hit in the thigh by the front of the car, Higgins was hit again as the back end of the car swung around, knocking him into the grass beside the street.

Higgins was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in Bryan where he was treated for multiple bruises and released.

The name of the driver of the car, a Mustang, was not available.

The street has been a hazard for soccer players for many years. Soccer practice generally takes place at the same time as the heaviest traffic during the day. During scrimmages, many balls must be chased from the field which borders Jersey.

Attempts by the soccer team to obtain another field have met with failure from all directions. Director of Intramurals, Dennis Corrington, who is in charge of club sports facilities, has been contacted numerous times but has not come up with a permanent facility for the team.
