Drop in, see him

The district office for Congressman Olin E. Teague, located in the downtown Bryan Post Office, will be open to the public during the first two weeks in February in conjunction with a Congressional recess.

"I will have two of my staff members working in the Bryan office until Feb. 14 to set up appointments and take care of some matters, and I will be in and out of the office and traveling around the 6th District," Teague said.

The money that is collected from the parking fees is used for maintenance of parking areas as well as enforcement and administrative cost. Maintenance, including signing and striping of parking spaces, amounts to 16 a semester. Approximately 15 percent goes to salaries and 15 percent to registration procedures.

The fees are not used for the construction of streets, although the fees are used for the maintenance of on-the-street parking spaces. The 100 percent parking increase has caused some problems. There has been an increase in the amount of people parking in the business lots around campus. Also, the increase in bicycles and pedestrian traffic has caused congestion and a safety problem. The City of College Station has passed ordinances restricting off-campus parking to certain areas and for the construction of bicycle paths.

The lowering of fees would help to alleviate this problem but the problem of on-campus parking would increase unless new ways to fund on-campus parking are found.
