UT has editor problems

By CYNTHIA MACIEL
Staff Writer

At Texas A&M the editor of the Battalion is selected by the Student Publications Board. There are no disqualified votes, no invalidated elections, no appeal decision.

Our university neighbor to the southwest, the UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT AUSTIN, elected an editor and now is trying to un-elect him. Bill Garland, the prospective editor, was found guilty by the Alpha Phi Omega Election Commission of violating the Texas Student Publications election code while running for the office by "continually campaigning in university owned dormitories." He had been warned by a resident assistant that such activities were prohibited by dorm policies.

Garland maintains that although his campaign activities carried him to several men's dorms, he did not think such canvassing was in violation of the election rules. There is a Student Court hearing today to determine whether the disqualification will be allowed to stand.

If Garland's disqualification is upheld, the issue becomes confusing. The Election Commission must choose whether to name second-place Tagliarino editor-elect or to call for a new election or even to dump the matter on the board by reporting only that a vacancy exists in the editor's position.

At RICE, the Campus Store presented a check for $50,000 to the Pub Board of Control. This makes the Pub an entirely profit-making operation. These profits will be used to provide live and continuing entertainment, pay the salaries of student employees and insure that prices will be far below those of any other establishment in the Rice area.

THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT AUSTIN is still constructing, as we are. The Daily Texan pointed out that at a time when the university president is proposing a cut-back in the budget of the College of Humanities and at a time when student interest in inter-collegiate athletics is at a low, the University is about to present its athletics department with three new facilities, costing $37 million.

The newspaper said that the added construction will not help Texas in academic endeavors, but will help the University become a good-looking institution.

The SOUTHERN METHODIST UNIVERSITY newspaper reports that campus fraternities are changing their pledge programs in order to abide by the University anti-hazing policy. Some fraternities will have to change most of their pledge programs but one says that they will only have to omit their scavenger hunts and Hell Week. They added that they will rename Hell Week "Help Week."

ARE YOU A UNITARIAN WITHOUT KNOWING IT?

- Do you believe The Bible to be an inspiring human document, rather than the literal "word of God"?
- Do you believe that man is not condemned by the doctrine of "original sin", but is inherently capable of improvement?
- Do you believe the development of character to be more important than the accepting of religious creeds?
- Do you believe the purpose of religion is to help us live this life nobly and constructively, rather than to emphasize the preparation for an after-existence?

The Unitarian answers are affirmative. Join with other religious liberals who insist upon individual freedom of belief and the use of reason in religion.

TAMU is offering the new College Level Examination Program which offers people a chance to gain credit for college-level achievement regardless of formal education or background.

Information and registration for the CLEP tests is available at the Academic Testing Center in the Academic Building.

CLEP tests offered

There are four vacancies in the TAMU Student Senate.

Graduate — Agriculture
Graduate — Engineering
Graduate — Liberal Arts
Undergraduate — Off-Campus

Applications will be accepted in the MSC Student Programs Office until March 10.

Necktie Party to meet

The Necktie Party, an "alternative to the present Student Government," will meet tonight to set policies and nominate candidates in the MSC Student Lounge. There are no dues or duties, "only opinions are needed." "Everyone is welcome to come and speak or just watch."

Society opens nominations

Phi Delta Gamma is accepting nominations through March 29 for "Outstanding Young Woman of Brazos County."

Nominees should be between ages 21 and 35 and be nominated for activities such as community service and occupation achievements.

The judging panel, which consists of five persons from business/professional groups, civic groups and TAMU, will present the award on April 19.
