New department head named for journalism

Assoc. Prof. Bob G. Rogers has been named the new head of the journalism department and chairman of the Student Publications Board.

Rogers, who rejoined the TAMU journalism faculty last fall, will become department head Sept. 1, the start of the new school year. He will assume his new responsibilities as chairman of the seven-member policy board for the student newspaper and yearbook April 1.

He succeeds C. J. "Skip" Leabo as department head. Leabo announced last month plans to devote full time to teaching and research within the department. Jim Lindsey, University News Service director, currently serves as chairman of the publications board. "We are contemplating a proposal to seek eventual expansion of our journalism department into a school of communications which would involve all the media," said David Maxwell, dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

"Professor Rogers, with his academic and newspaper background, is the ideal person to provide the leadership for such an endeavor," the dean added.

Prior to returning to TAMU last fall, Rogers taught journalism for four years at the University of Wyoming and was department head the last three years. He taught here from 1968 until 1970 while studying for a master's degree in political science.

The 47-year-old native of Waco previously compiled 22 years as a working journalist, the last four as managing editor of the Austin American-Statesman. He joined the American-Statesman in 1952 after five full years and three summers on the Waco News-Tribune and Times-Herald.

He received his undergraduate degree at the University of Texas at Austin.

Aggie Band will march three times

Texas Aggie Bands don't march much more this spring, but there are still many chances to see them perform.

The Texas Aggie Band has three marching engagements left. It will be in the April 20 Parents' Day review, marches in the Battle of Flowers Parade in San Antonio April 25 and leads the May 10 Final Review.

The concert and stage bands will go on stage in Austin April 4, for an A&M Mothers Club-sponsored show.

The pace will remain lively the rest of the semester, for the three bands and Maj. Joe Haney, Aggie band director. He will be in Edinburg April 15-16 to judge UIL Class AAA and AAAA concert band contests. The director has similar responsibilities April 22-24 in Woodville.

In between, he will take the stage band to the Bryan Civic Auditorium for a Bryan Library Association-sponsored concert. It is planned for April 18.

Also on the April 20 Parents' Day, the concert band will present a public-free show at the Rudder Center. The Aggie Band performs as a group in the April 21 Aggie Muster.

Along with the April 25 San Antonio parade and May 10 wrap-up of the 1974-75 school year, the stage band will play for a Corps of Cadets dance planned in April and a spring athletic social event.

Join the third biggest family in the world.

Imagine an order of 22,000 priests and brothers in 73 countries around the world. (That's a pretty big family.)

But that's what the Salesians of St. John Bosco are all about — a large family of community-minded men dedicated to the service of youth. (And no one gets lost.)

In Italy in the 1800's a chance meeting between a poor priest and a street urchin served to create a movement of such success that it is still growing today. Don Bosco became the priest who brought youth back from the streets — and back to God.

He reasoned that a program of play, learn and pray would make useful citizens of the world. He crowded out evil with reason, religion and kindness in a (what was then unheard of) atmosphere of family.

The ideals of St. John Bosco are still with us today. His work goes on in boys clubs, technical and academic schools, guidance centers, summer camps and missions. And his very human approach is very evident in the family spirit of the Salesians. This is the way he wanted it. This is the way it is. The Salesian experience isn't learned — it's lived.
