The student pub is just one facet of the college drinking scene of today. Presently, a number of colleges and universities in the state of Texas are seeking the addition of a bar to the campus. One exception is the University of Texas at Austin which since January of this year has had one.

The pub, called The Texas Tavern, is located in the temporary union, until the Texas Union is renovated. The bar currently serves all forms of alcoholic beverages to any student who is a legal Shirley Perry, director of the Texas Union, controlling body of the tavern, discussed the present situation at UT.

"There have been requests for an on-campus bar since the thirties and then again in the sixties. Then with the 18-year-old adult law the students got the support of the administration and, finally, the Board of Regents. The last obstacle was a city ordinance that was changed for us," said Perry.

The state license for the pub is held and controlled by the regents, the director added.

At present, the bar serves beer from 11 a.m. until midnight and mixed drinks from 5 until mid-
