Netmen compete for crown

By MIKE BRUTON
Sports Editor

While Southwest Conference championship golf and track and field competition is going on this weekend, the Texas A&M tennis team will also be in battle for the crown in their specialty.

The Aggies will take five players to the SWC title tournament to be held at the Lubbock Racquet Club. The five A&M racketeers are Billy Hoover, Bill Wright, Charles Emley, Tom Courson and Mark Silberman.

A&M's Wright has to be considered as a favorite in the singles battle, especially with the absence of Hardie. Hoover can't be counted out as he was a finalist in the tournament a year ago.

Other singles favorites are: Houston's Ross Walker, Texas Gary Plock and Baylor's Danny Dobbs.

In the doubles fight Texas looks strong with two teams amongst the favorites. The Horns will have Plock and Graham Whaling who posted a 5-0 in SWC play this spring on one team and Stewart Keller and Gonzalo Nunez (4-2) on the other. Also favored in the doubles competition Houston's Walker and Dale Ogden. If Ogden should win with Walker, he'll become the tenth three-time doubles champ in SWC history. He won with Lee Merry in 1973 and 74.

With SMU not in the match Texas and Houston are obviously the teams with the top seeded individuals. Houston's Walker defeated Mustang Hardie in team-match singles the past two years, losing only one set. He also posted a 6-1 SWC record this spring, losing only to the Longhorn's Plock who had an identical record.

Coach Richard Barker will have Hoover, Wright, Emley, and Courson in the singles matches and Hoover-Emley (4-3) and Wright-Mark Silberman (1-6) in the doubles.
