Parking scarce

Alternatives thrive

By LORI RAESNER
Staff Writer

An increase in the number of shuttle-bus passes and car-pool permits issued by the University Police Department illustrates two solutions to shortage of campus parking spaces.

Two days of registration for a third alternative, bicycling, had reached 1,300 Tuesday.

Only 7,730 parking spaces are available on campus for students, said Asst. Chief Morris Maddox, with about 650 more scheduled to be ready soon.

Two hundred of the new spaces will be in Lot 24 south of Mosher and Aston Dorms. The rest will be in Lot 62, west of Kyle Field, and will be open to day students.

Enrollment exceeds 24,000 persons this fall.

Approximately 3,100 spaces are reserved for the nearly 8,600 on-campus students, while day students have sole access to about 2,000 places.

An additional 1,142 spaces are in two lots open to all students.

More than 3,000 shuttle-bus passes already have been issued, said Maddox. This is more than the number issued last spring.

"And we're still going strong," he said.

Maddox said that many students have picked up night-parking permits along with their shuttle-bus passes.

Night permits allow students to park on campus between 5 p.m. and 7 a.m. and on weekends in staff and day-student lots. They are free to students who paid for shuttle bus service.

Car pooling is also relieving the parking shortage, Maddox said, with about 160 of those special permits issued so far.

A car-pool permit may be issued to any group of at least three people. Each person pays $4 and receives a sticker for his car, while the group gets one card that must be displayed along with the sticker. In this way, only one of the cars at a time can be brought on campus.

Students with on-campus stickers may park in Parking Areas 1, 2, 3, 23, 24, 25, 39, 40, 48 and 49. Freshman and sophomore students, however, may only park in those lots open to their classification.

Day-student lots are numbered 5, 8, 9 and 50, with Lot 62 scheduled to be opened soon. Day students may also park along portions of Throckmorton, Bizzell and Houston Streets.

Lots 56 and 61 are open to all students. Diagrams of parking locations are available in a Motor Vehicle Regulations pamphlet issued by the University Police Department.

Maddox said that quite a bit of illegal parking is currently taking place on campus, but the confusion should die down soon.

"Until next week we won't give tickets for not having a sticker, but we will give tickets if a car is parked illegally," he said.

Rock fans protest shut-out

Associated Press

SYRACUSE — State troopers and hundreds of gate-crashing young music fans clashed Tuesday at the gates to a giant rock concert at the State Fairgrounds. An undetermined number of troopers and youths were injured in the melee.

Youth without tickets and who were being kept outside the concert area threw rocks and bottles at troopers lined up just inside the gates to the Great American Music Fair. The troopers hurled tear gas and went after the unruly crowd with nightsticks, witnesses said.

"They (the youths) were throwing rocks, bottles, anything they could... sticks, clubs, anything," said one state trooper.

Witnesses said at least four troopers were cut by flying glass. First Deputy Police Chief John Dillon suffered a head cut when hit by a rock, authorities said a small girl was knocked unconscious and was carried to an infirmary, and an undetermined number of other persons were injured. The extent of the injuries was not immediately determined.

State Police said about 2,000 youths and 100 troopers were involved.

While massed before the entrance to the concert, the crowd was chanting, "All we want is peace and music — let us in."

State Police said some of the youths tried to force their way in, and security guards called for help from troopers.

The crowd then began flinging bottles and rocks at the formation of troopers, State Police said, and the troopers ran out to the crowd, tossing teargas canisters and clubbing some of the youths with nightsticks.

The violence lasted about 40 minutes, State Police said.
