'Biased rednecks make best jurors'

Associated Press
DALLAS — A Dallas County assistant district attorney believes prosecutors should look for jurors who are "hypocritical, biased, red-neck . . . individuals who want a crook kept off the streets."

Jon Sparling, speaking to prosecutors attending a special course sponsored by the county district attorney's office, said he didn't want any women on his jury "because I can't trust them."

He said his no-no list for jurors should include women who carry umbrellas and wear heavy makeup, blacks, those extremely overweight, those physically impaired, free-thinkers, and "flower children." Sparling told the course Tuesday night that women who carry umbrellas and wear a splotch of red makeup on each cheek "are crazy and don't take one if you can avoid it."

He said those of the minority races, especially blacks, always empathize with the defendant. Those overweight, especially women and young people, "indicate a lack of self-discipline and often instability."

"The physically impaired are not good state jurors. Oftentimes, they believe the world owes them a living . . . and again they empathize with the defendant," he said.

Sparling, chief attorney for the county's Specialized Crime Division, said it is a good idea to check how a male prospective juror is dressed.

"I want a person who has respect for the court . . . and wears a coat and tie," he said. "I like conservatively, well-dressed people. You can usually tell the way they think by the way they are dressed."

He told the 300 prosecutors attending the course to look out for the "habitual grinners because you can't tell what is behind that grin."

Sparling said if a prospective juror grins at the prosecutor, then it may be safe to take him but if he also grins at the defense attorney, give him the thumbs down.

GOP predict losses

Associated Press
WASHINGTON — Republicans, already outnumbered two to one in the House, could lose 25 more seats in next year's elections, a party panel has bluntly warned GOP members.

The House Republican Research Committee sounded the alarm, citing columns of statistics from past elections. It denounced, in a fact sheet sent to GOP members, "smugness . . . (that) borders on arrogance," and called for "positive initiatives."

The committee, headed by Rep. Louis Frey Jr., R-Fla., is part of the Republican House organization.

The panel said that Republican successes earlier this year is sustaining President Ford's vetoes and what it termed the majority Democrats' inability to pull together behind a legislative program sent a wave of optimism through Republican ranks — including the committee itself.

"And then it was Tuesday, Sept. 16: Election Day in New Hampshire," the report continued, referring to Democrat John A. Durkin's stunning 27,000 vote defeat of Republican Louis C. Wyman in the rerun of a senatorial election that had been too close to name a winner last November.

"They elected a Democrat in a state where even the Independents outnumber the Democrats," the committee said.

"They elected a Democrat after the President and ex-Gov. (Ronald) Reagan of California went up and campaigned for the Republican."

"The handwriting is on the wall. Can we read it?"

Ford, a candidate for election to a full term next year, told GOP contributors in Oklahoma City last Friday he senses in his party "a revival of optimism . . . based on very sound political realities."
