I'm not sure whether an Aggie (farmer) should like a Horned Frog or not. They tear up the fields. Nasty little holes in the ground. A calf that steps in one could lose an ankle. But then again, they eat up a lot of ants and other obnoxious bugs.

TCU likewise. They're likely to improve a bit over their record-setting negative 58 yards rushing last year but their outstanding passing crew could feed a lot of secondary people. Enough, perhaps, to set an interception record.

They may be highly ranked in passing nationally, but name me a passing team that is highly-ranked. Aha, can't go through the line or keep others from doing the same so get rid of the ball, as fast as possible. The game won't be so fast, though. Remember, every time there is an incompleting the clock stops.

The Froggies finished up with 10 yards total offense last year. I don't think they'll be lucky enough this time.

Zero yards total offense would go a long way towards putting the Ags back in the lead in total defense for the nation. Kind of cancel out Tech, if you will.

Besides, Coach Bellard can only carry 48-players on the trip. That's quite a few less than the number of players Darrell Royal used in that good ole 82-14 (or so) shellacking last year. The shellac is still there.

TCU is definitely a bottom ten candidate if they're not still there. I haven't looked in so long. I won't be afraid to say it, they're not worth a d--n, (that's -ar-, you can't be too careful with Christian schools).

I'm tired of trying to predict scores. I did a super job picking the Illinois game, but the next week I was 30 points high and then 30 points low the next. So from now on I'll predict what I'd like the score to be. This week I'd like to see us win 105-0. If we're 30 points high OR low then I'll still be satisfied.

My writer, David Walker (he's not the quarterback), agrees. He says, "I predict a margin of at least 51 points and expect TCU not to show up for the second half."

They'll change the name of the school to fit a popular saying and the third commandment. The new name: TGIS (Thank goodness it's Sunday) Oct. 19, 1975, ADA, (after dem aggies). The Ags'll be thanking the Froggies too.

Got to keep the sabbath holy. 6-Oley.

Oilers up for Skins

Associated Press

HOUSTON — The Houston Oilers defeated Washington 24-13 in a pre-season game but they won't be anticipating any easy time Sunday when the two teams meet for the second time this year in the Astrodome.

This time it's for real and the Redskins will have a couple of key players, Diron Talbert and Larry Brown, in uniform. They were on the injury list for Houston's pre-season victory.

"What we did in pre-season means absolutely nothing as far as Sunday's game is concerned," Oiler Coach O. A. "Bum" Phillips said. "George Allen has the most experienced team in pro football and they don't make mistakes. Everything you get off the Redskins, you have to earn, they just don't give you anything."

Both teams will enter the game with 3-1 records and running one behind the division leaders. Washington trails unbeaten Dallas and Cincinnati leads the Oilers.

THE AGGIELAND '76
FOR ORGANIZATIONS AND CLUBS

In an attempt to set precedent concerning the conflict of recognized versus unrecognized organizations and clubs, The Aggieland '76 is requiring organizations and clubs desiring to be represented in the book BE RECOGNIZED BY THE UNIVERSITY.

Even if an unrecognized organization or club has bought pages in past Aggielands, if they want to be included this year the organization or club must go through the recognition procedures established by the university.

An organization or club wanting to become recognized can do so at the Student Programs Office, second floor of the MSC.

The Aggieland will accept no organization or club for contracting space after Nov. 10, 1975.

All previously recognized organizations and clubs plus those applying for recognition have until Nov. 10 to contract space. After Nov. 10 there will be no further space sold in the book and no exceptions will be made.

If any questions develop call Student Publications at 845-2611, ask for Debbie Stallings or Gary Baldasari.

Cheeseborough wins gold in competition

Associated Press

MEXICO CITY — Chandra Cheeseborough, a 16-year-old schoolgirl and the baby of the U.S. team, streaked to a Pan American Games record in the women's 200-meter dash and sparked an American revival in these events, which continued to be a comedy — or tragedy — of errors.

Just as it's happened so often in these confused hemispheric celebrations of sports, there was massive confusion after Miss Cheeseborough, from Jacksonville, Fla., had edged her fast-closing teammate, Pamela Jiles of New Orleans.

The judges awarded the medals in reverse order, the gold to Miss Jiles and the silver to Miss Cheeseborough.

Both girls appeared bewildered after the presentation, sought an explanation from the judges and later swapped medals.

Miss Cheeseborough, on the inside, got off to a fast start, but just held on against the lithe Miss Jiles, who won the 100 earlier in the week.

Miss Jiles, on the outside, almost made up a one-stride deficit in the last few yards. To the naked eye, it appeared the two girls hit the tape in a dead heat. Electronic devices and photos separated them, however, and clearly showed Miss Cheeseborough the winner with a time of 22.77 seconds.

Miss Jiles was caught in 22.81, also better than the record 23.05 she set in the trials.

The women's 200-meter victory was one of six acquired early in the day by the United States and allowed the usually-dominant Americans finally to tie the surprising Cubans in the scramble for gold medals.
