Cross Country
Harriers top field

By PAUL McGRATH
Battalion Sports Writer

In an almost perfect exhibition of team running the Texas A&M cross country garnered first place honors over nine teams last Saturday in Denton.

Sophomore Bruce Smith, finishing fourth in individual competition, led the Aggie pack which placed five runners in the top ten.

Joining Smith were Kyle Heffner (sixth), Lane Mitchell (seventh), Manfred Kohrs (ninth) and Charles Cottle (tenth). Smith's time of 30:52 over the six-mile course, enabled him for the second time in four meets to top the A&M field.

Not only did Coach Ted Nelson's squad place a quintet in the top ten, but the time span from Smith to Cottle was only a 27 second difference.

Jacob Yemme was A&M's sixth man finishing 16th with freshman Walter Jachimowicz taking 21st. Overall, the Ags' accumulative team score of 31 points, found by adding an equivalent amount of points per numerical finish of the first five men, was 25 marks better than second place Oklahoma. The Sooners had defeated the Aggies in Arlington just a week earlier.

Taking first place in the race but running unattached, was former University of Houston star Leonard Hilton. His winning time was 29:51.

"Our group did a good job," said Nelson about his team which was running a six-mile course for the first time this year.

"Our plan before the race was to run together as a team and have about a 5:05 mile pace," Nelson said. He pointed to the success of the strategy by the team having six men together at the four-mile mark and four men bunched after five miles.

"I was pleased with the individual effort of all of our runners. They made it a great team effort," Nelson added.

"Bruce Smith did a good job of leadership, he was the team leader and ran some pretty good splits. He really came on from last week," he said. The Aggie soph was suffering from a slight cold last week which hindered his performance.

"Kyle Heffner, who has been our most consistent runner every week, also did a good job. Mitchell really came on like a gangbuster. He's made a lot of progress."

Continuing about individual team members, Nelson said,

"We're looking for big things from Manfred (Kohrs), he's about ready to come on for us. Cottle has been putting in a lot of mileage, almost 120 a week. I think that in about two weeks he'll be ready too."

Jacob Yemme, who finished just one spot away from being able to collect the medal given to the first 15 placers, has "not had a bad race yet," said Nelson. "He's done a solid job, he's been consistent every week."

Jachimowicz, who has been conditioned to running the two-mile high school courses, is having a problem in adjusting to the step up to six in college, according to Nelson. The frosh is expected to improve steadily however, said the A&M coach.

Two half milers, Tony Wheeler and Tommy Glass, also ran in the meet to gain some competition experience and Nelson said he was pleased with their efforts.

Experience would seem to be a key word for the young Aggie squad as only one senior (Cottle) is among the ranks. However, most of the team has had a great deal of previous running experience, causing Nelson to say, "We're a young team in an unusual way. We have an advantage with some of our freshmen because most of them have some prior experience. We're fortunate not to have had a lot of ups and downs from our freshmen."

The Aggie harriers are matched with Baylor in a dual meet this Saturday. The course will revert back to four miles surrounding the Polo Field as A&M runs before the home folk for the first time this season. In addition to the men, the A&M women will also compete against the Bears on the same course.

Soccer boosts season record

The Aggie soccer team boosted its record to 5-1-1 and enhanced its chances for a playoff berth with a tie against defending champs UH and a shutout of Rice the past weekend.

Houston who had the week before defeated tough challenger Texas and earlier in the season knocked off the Ags 6-2 in their only loss, found themselves at a heavy disadvantage going to the locker room at the half of Saturday's match behind 2-0.

Habib Ben-Ali proved the culprit for the Aggies, when he passed to Arturo Wolf for the first goal, and played havoc with the Houston goalie on a fast-break to score the second.

The Aggie defense, despite losing goalie Hank Arnold and halfback Paul Oliver with injuries, stood strong the second half, giving a goal to Houston with ten minutes remaining and nearly taking the win. Houston scored the tie at one minute left, to leave the score 2-2.

With Dan Byerly taking up the goalkeeping slack and playing a superb game, the Ags defeated Rice 2-0 at Rice. Wolf scored again for the Ags with a free kick in the first half. Ben-Ali scored the second goal in the second half to salt the game.
