Council urges Halloween limits

Last Thursday the College Station City Council passed a resolution urging residents to plan alternate Halloween festivities for children this year.

The council is asking citizens to comply with the following:

- Trick or treating from house to house should be limited or discouraged completely.
- Where trick or treating occurs the children should visit only their immediate neighborhood.
- All children should be accompanied by an adult at all times.
- Each individual should wear light-colored clothing for easy visibility.
- Particular care should be exercised to avoid traffic hazards in the streets.

• Never allow a child to eat treats until an adult has examined them for evidence of tampering and then use extreme caution.

The council took the action in light of last year's rash of cases involving adulterated Halloween candy throughout the nation.
