INTRAMURAL HIGHLIGHTS

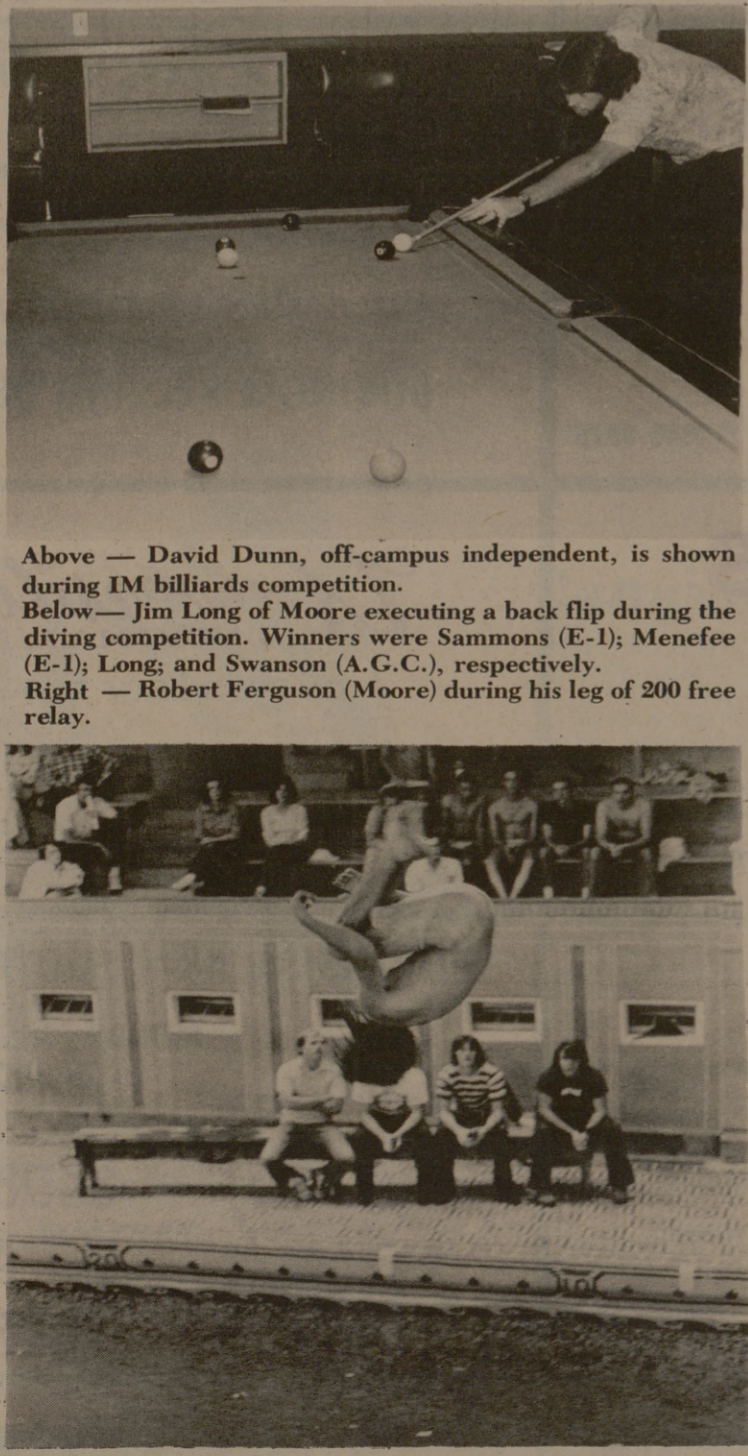

Special Events Coming

Two special IM events will be initiated this year and will return in following years depending on the participation. These events are a bicycle race and a long driving contest.

The bike race will be a 3-man team relay event around a 3.3 mile course to be laid out near the new IM Complex west of Wellborn Road. Each team member will peddle one 3.3 mile leg and different bikes must be used by each team member. There will be divisions for 10-speeds and 3-speeds. The race will be held on Sunday, November 16 at 10:00 a.m. Awards will include IM T-Shirts.

The first annual IM long driving contest will be held on November 16 at 1:30 p.m. at the Civil Engineering Field across the new main drive from the TAMU golf course. Each person will hit three balls off the tee with the longest drive of the three being counted as the entrant's drive. Each contestant must bring 3 Club Special Balls which will be returned after the contest. This event is open to any student, faculty, or staff member who is not currently on the roster of the TAMU Golf Team or is a professional golfer. Awards for this contest include an IM T-Shirt for the winner and IM certificates for the runner-ups.

To enter either of these two special events, simply come by the Intramural office at DeWare Fieldhouse and fill out an entry blank.

150 Zebras Needed

Have you ever had a burning desire to have people look up to you with gentle smiles and give you friendly suggestions about the last call you made? Well, if you have, we have an offer you can't refuse. The IM department is looking for 150 students to act as referees during the basketball season which starts in December and continues through the Spring semester.

If you would like to find out more about these good evening job opportunities (yes, you will be working for the state of Texas) come to room 267 of G. Rollie White Coliseum on Thursday, November 13 at either 7:00 or 8:00 in the evening. Hours are flexible, the pay and working conditions are good, and the employers are the best that can be found, so come on out and wear a zebra shirt and blow your whistle all night.

Harriers prepare for SWC

By PAUL McGRATH

Monday, the Texas A&M cross country team will compete with eight other teams in what may be the most hotly contested Southwest Conference championship race ever.

Six teams, including the Aggies' Coach Ted Nelson, have a strong chance at coming away with the marbles.

"This is probably the best competitive race ever in the SWC," said Nelson. "We've got to have five men that run well, and our seventh man is going to have to beat someone else's fifth man." Nelson will take nine men to Houston's Glenbrook Golf Course, the site of the four-mile title jaunt. Seven will run with the first five counting for the accumulative team score.

"I'm pretty optimistic about our chances. If we run in our capabilities we could finish anywhere in the top four," Nelson said.

"We've got to have good performances out of all of our people. A lot will depend on our fifth runner. Right now I don't know who that will be," he said.

The A&M squad consists of Bruce Smith, Charles Cottle, Kyle Heffner, Jacob Yemme, Manfred Kohrs, Lane Mitchell, Walter Jachimowicz and Marvin Moffett. The big gun is

Smith, who has been the Aggies' first runner three times this season.

The Ags have been on a streak of late, winning soundly their last two meets with almost perfect exhibitions of team running (running as a group or pack). However, they have not run competitively in two weeks, which according to Nelson, may be an advantage.

"When you race every week you miss some of the training you need. We were able to get in a lot of the training we needed and gave a couple of our runners with nagging injuries a chance to recuperate," said Nelson.

The Aggies may well need the rest they received when faced with foes such as Rice, Arkansas, Texas and Houston. Texas Tech, SMU, TCU and Baylor will also be there to stir up the kettle.

Arkansas, with Naill O'Shaughnessey, Randy Melancon and Steve Baker, was the league champ last year and has lost no one off that title team.

Rice has perhaps the SWC's top harrier in Jeff Wells. He and John Lodwick form the backbone of the Owl squad. Wells was last year's top individual finisher and is the odds on favorite to cop that crown again Monday despite a few hampering calf ailments.

Texas is led by Reed Fischer and the Craig brothers, Paul and John. "Texas really came on strong last week (they defeated Rice decisively in Austin)," Nelson said. "I've known they've had the ability all along."

Houston is another prime candidate for the top spot with Brad Rickman, Eric Lothrop and Wayne Brannen forming the top three Cougar runners. The Aggies and Coogs have split in their two meetings this year.

Tech has been somewhat of a mystery team, but the Red Raiders expect to have one of their best groups ever. They are led by Roger Ellis and Mark Freeman.

Baylor, TCU and SMU are on the light side, but could cause a lot of trouble by displacing runners from the favored schools. Hence Nelson's concern about the performance of his fifth man.

Nelson plans for his squad to start out fast on the four-mile course, running the first mile in 4:40 or less. From there, "they'll have to play it by ear, depending on how the leaders start out."

Nelson hopes to have his squad run basically as a team, staying as close together as possible. He says Rice, Texas and Arkansas are good at this tactic.

This meet will be followed by the District six-miler held in Austin on Nov. 17. The district meet will qualify those for NCAA competition.
