

Explosion kills at least four Silver Taps planned

MILWAUKEE, Mich. — Rescue workers located a fourth body early today in the wake of an explosion that ripped through a 225-foot grain storage elevator, Saginaw County officials said.

The blast on Thursday left 10 others injured. One man remained missing. Officials believe he is dead and buried under a section of one of the silo's reinforced concrete walls which collapsed in the explosion.

The cause of the blast at the grain storage complex, operated by Farm Bureau Services, was not known. However, grain dust in elevators sometimes explodes.

The force of the explosion threw pieces of concrete, some of them four feet long, as far as one quarter of a mile, observers reported.

Saginaw County sheriff's deputies said rescue workers could see the body of Roger Horney buried under debris. They listed no home town or age for the dead man.

Rescue workers said it could take the rest of the day to remove the body from the wreckage and find the missing man among the rubble.

One of the survivors of the blast was trapped for 13 hours in the wreckage before rescuers could free him.

Workers used cranes and a helicopter to help in the search for bodies and injured. One injured man was plucked to safety as he clung to the wreckage of a wall left standing after the blast. Three other workers walked away from the explosion with minor cuts.

Larry Fess, 24, of Linwood, was pinned for more than 13 hours in the debris of the wrecked structure while doctors and rescue workers tried to comfort and reassure him. He was in shock after being removed from the rubble, suffering from the cold. The temperature was just three degrees above zero about the time he was freed.

"He is buried under tons and tons of concrete," ambulance attendant John Malzahn, 24, said before Fess was freed. "All you can see is his head, his neck and one arm."

"There were bodies all over the place and apparently they had been blown right through the walls and the windows," said Saginaw County sheriff's deputy John Dankert. "There were other people who had been knocked down walking around in a daze."

Funeral services for Texas A&M freshman William M. Hale, 19, will be held at 2:30 p.m. Friday (Jan. 23) in San Antonio at Porter Loring Funeral Chapel with burial in Mission Burial Park.

A&M officials have announced

Silver Taps ceremonies for Hale are scheduled Tuesday (Jan. 27).

A management major from Temple, Hale was found dead on campus Wednesday. Peace Justice Mike Callahan said the case had been ruled suicide.

SCONA 21 to study Third World views

Third World issues will be discussed in the 21st Student Conference on National Affairs (SCONA) at Texas A&M by men working with them day-by-day.

Recently confirmed as speakers for the Feb. 11-14 SCONA 21 are William Schaufele, U. S. assistant secretary of state for Africa, and the U. N. Ambassador from Pakistan, Iqbal Akhund.

Ambassador Akhund and Ambassador Schaufele speak to SCONA delegates on Thursday, Feb. 12. The Pakistan official will discuss the increasing strength of the Third World; Schaufele, the U. S. response.

SCONA Chairman Joe Carter said all plenary session addresses are open to the public. Schaufele's is at 8 p.m. Feb. 13. Akhund will speak at 10 a.m.

Carter said the Third World issues are vital to the overall SCONA theme, "Global Power in Transition."

"Increasing strength of the Third World is becoming ever more evident," he said. "It has shown in Third World voting strength on recent issues before United Nations."

The U. S. came off second best in a confrontation with them on letting the Palestine Liberation Organization into debate.

Akhund and Schaufele join Rex Grey, former president of IT&T for the Middle East and North Africa; political scientist Dr. Charles Marshall and Adm. Noel Gayler, U. S. Pacific forces commander, as SCONA 21 speakers.

The conference will seat 150 off-campus delegates from across the U. S. and Mexico. Thirty A&M delegates will include international students from the Dominican Republic, Australia, Nigeria, Bangladesh and Guyana.

Akhund has been Pakistan's permanent representative to the U. N. since 1972. He served in diplomatic missions in Canada, Spain, the Netherlands, Saudi Arabia and Malaysia during 1949-56. Along with other foreign ministry jobs, he was ambassador to the U. A. R. in 1968-71, to Yugoslavia in 1971-72. Akhund was vice president of the U. N. Economics and Social Council in 1974.

Before assuming his present post, Schaufele was inspector general of the U. S. Foreign Service. He served as U. S. ambassador to the Security Council and ambassador to Upper Volta.

Fire academy sites studied

Henry D. Smith, 609 Ethel, Bryan, has been appointed to a federal board that will explore possible sites for the National Academy for Fire Prevention and Control.

Smith is head of the Firemen Training and Municipal Inspectors Training Division, Texas Engineering Extension Service.

The appointment was made by Secretary of Commerce Rogers C. B. Morton. The academy is a division of the Commerce Department's National Fire Prevention and Control Administration.
