Music, photography combined in Rudder Theater showing

By RAY DANIELS
Battalion Staff Writer
Chick and Anne Herbert, contemporary artists, will perform their Synesthesia Jan. 28 at 8 p.m. in Rudder Theater.

Sponsored by the Arts Committee, the show presents the results of several years work by the Herberts in fields of art ranging from dance to photography. Four Kodak Ektagraphic projectors, specially modified for the purpose, will be used to produce the images of the show to the accompaniment of music written by Chick. The images of the projectors will be controlled by two panels engineered by the team to allow mixing, lap dissolve, overlays, and image metamorphosis. This technique allows sequences that cannot be produced with film.

The music in the show will be written by Chick and some will be classical. Chick's music uses not only standard instrumentation, but also electronic sound manipulation equipment. This, combined with the optical experience of the show, produces Synesthesia.

Chick, a former design engineer, and Anne, a former illustrator and oceanographer, met while still in high school, forming the team eventually to produce Synesthesia. One day they left their lives in the sciences and pursued a life that grew to include the combined use of photography and music. The show began in high schools and elementary schools, then was expanded in scope to meet the demands of the college circuits.

The Herberts have conducted workshops on multimedia, photo-art, dance and music and use audience participation as a part of the show's creativity.

Community ed... Consol has it all

By PAULA GEYER
Battalion Staff Writer

Interested in learning to belly dance, repair a motorcycle or play guitar? If so, the A&M Consolidated School Community Education Program might provide the opportunity. The program, which holds registration through Friday, is designed to provide area residents with a chance to get involved in educational, cultural and recreational activities.

Tuition fees for the classes are 50 cents per class hour with a minimum of $5.

Classes will meet for eight weeks beginning this Monday evening at all four schools in College Station.

The schools are: A&M Consolidated High School, 701 West Loop (Farm Road 2818); A&M Consolidated Middle School, 200 Anderson; South Knoll Elementary School, 1220 Boswell; and College Hills Elementary School, 101 Williams.

Daytime classes will be held in the A&M Consolidated Special Services Building, 1300 Jersey St., at the First Baptist Church of College Station, 200 College Main, and at the St. Thomas Episcopal Church Center, 906 Jersey St.

Classes will be taught by local residents and Texas A&M University students.

"The program pays for itself," Community Education Director Charles W. Greenawalt said.

"The tuition provides the teachers with a salary of $5 per hour and pays the utilities on the buildings used," Greenawalt said.

Courses offered include typing, drawing, photography, woodshop, money management, citizen's band radios, fencing and nutrition.

Greenawalt said enrollment in the program is expected to exceed the 1,884 students enrolled in the program last fall.

"The schools belong to the community," he said. "The community might as well use them."

For more information on registration and classes contact the Community Education office at 846-3820.

Aggie fiddler to appear at Basement

Former Aggie Faron Evans, seen locally with the Fenceriders, will appear at the Basement Coffeehouse Jan. 30 from 8 to 12 p.m. Admission is $1.

Evans has recently been touring the country as a solo, and also in acts with Johnny Rodriguez, Tom T. Hall, and Frenchie Burke. His specialty is the fiddle and his performances have been well attended at A&M on previous occasions.

Job seminar features CIA, Bell, Gulf

Personnel representatives from the Central Intelligence Agency, Bell System and Gulf Oil Corporation will attend a seminar sponsored by the Economic Society Wednesday, Jan. 28, at 7:30 p.m. in Rudder Tower 607.

The program will explain the procedures the organizations use in hiring personnel, qualifications needed to apply, and the pay available. A question and answer period will be included.

Crime prevention project

Fort Worth police to utilize CB radios

Associated Press
FORT WORTH, Tex. — Fort Worth police are organizing a crime prevention program for citizen band radio operators.

"We know that thousands of citizens have CB radios in their automobiles and we hope to solicit their participation in reporting crimes, emergencies or suspicious activity," Deputy Police Chief H. F. Hopkins said.

"We are inviting citizens to register with us to participate in a program called 'Fort Worth Police Channel 9 Monitor,'" he said.

The program was developed and will be started by the police Community Services Division.

Tom Stevenson, director of the division, said he believes Fort Worth is the only police department to develop such a project.

Hopkins, "Because of the widespread saturation of CB units throughout the metroplex, we feel that in effect, the police department will vastly expand its eyes and ears. Interested citizens make the most effective crime prevention team ever devised."

CB owners who join the program will have no police powers and cannot carry weapons.

Social club formed to give dance lessons

Several A&M students have formed a social dance club.

Mrs. Pat Morton, physical education dance instructor will give instruction to the club.

The first of the weekly sessions will begin Jan. 29 at 7 p.m. in G. Rollie White, room 260. Club activities will feature 30-minute teaching sessions followed by practice time. A $2.50 fee to cover publicity and incidentals will be charged. The club is open to all University students.

If more than 40 persons join the club, it will be allowed to move to the MSC ballroom for meetings. Percy said.
