

House votes to stop Angola aid

Associated Press
WASHINGTON — The House voted overwhelmingly Tuesday to halt further U.S. aid to two Western-backed factions fighting in Angola. A White House spokesman said the action "can only result in serious harm to the interests of the United States."

world that it will ignore a clear act of Soviet-Cuban expansion by brute military force into areas thousands of miles from either country."

Nessen said that Ford regrets the vote. It prohibits the use of funds in the defense appropriations bill to as-ist the people of Angola in resisting Soviet-Cuban intervention in their country, Ford said.

The Senate earlier approved the prohibition that came in the form of an amendment to a $112.3 billion defense appropriation bill.

Nessen said the President is considering two options to try to revive aid for Angola. These are to veto the bill in an effort to force Congress to reconsider its decision, or to separate the Angola issue from the defense appropriations bill. "Maybe with different language it will give the Congress more flexibility."

Prior to the 323-99 vote, President Ford had sent a letter to House Speaker Carl Albert asking that the aid not be cut off. Albert spoke forcefully on the floor in favor of the cut-off.

Six of the 23 Texas members of the House, including Rep. Olin E. "Tiger" Teague of College Station, were among those who voted for continued aid to Angola.

After the vote, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said in a statement approved by the President:

"The Congress has stated to the

Distinguished profs to speak at TAMU

Texas A&M is receiving a two per cent increase in faculty this spring.

Thirty-one educators and lecturers will be on campus throughout the spring semester as Visiting Centennial Professors. Dr. John C. Calhoun, vice-president of academic affairs, is in charge of the program.

During the month of February, the College of Liberal Arts will host Charles E. Feinberg, leading collector of Walt Whitman books and manuscripts, Charles B. Marshall, Paul Nitze, professor of international politics and John C. Merrill, journalism philosopher and professor.

Athelstan Spilhaus of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA); R. Freeman Butts, educator; and Ian L. McHarg, landscape architect and teacher, are also slated to appear on campus next month.
