HAIL TO 'FAREWELL, IT'S LOVELY!
If you are as starved for entertainment (as I am),
this is something you shouldn't miss. It's a very funny, engaging movie.
It is Mitchum's movie,
but that still leaves room
for some fine character bits. They're all there—CHANDLER's thugs, his corrupt cops, his has-been chorus lines—ALL FOR YOUR MOVIEGOING PLEASURE.

what she's going to do when she gets there." CM. Sgt. Vasovski, who retired from the U.S. Air Force in 1971, said he's fortunate to be at A&M today.

In 1939, Soviet forces captured Vasovski, who was then an officer in the Polish army. They turned him over to the Germans, who put him in a prisoner of war (POW) camp in Murnau, Germany.

He was transferred to the Allied POW Surgical Hospital in Siegburg in 1941. While at this hospital, Vasovski worked to gain better conditions for American prisoners of war.

He became senior medical orderly in the hospital in 1943 and for the next two years he was the main con-

Housing code defines safety and cleanliness

Did you know that the open storage of an abandoned car, an old refrigerator or stove, or just rubbish in general, is a misdemeanor?

Did you also know that landlords are responsible for the sanitary conditions of all shared and public areas, but that occupants are responsible for the cleanliness of their own premises?

Those items are covered in the Standard Housing Code for College Station. The code establishes minimum standards of occupancy and it applies to all dwellings, apartments and rooming houses.

Everything from structural strength to proper lighting and ventilation is considered by the code.

For example, every kitchen, bathroom, hallway, corridor and porch must have at least one light fixture. Also, any habitable room must con-

Several men to seek Congressional position

Republican Wes Mowery of Ft. Worth has announced his candidacy for the 6th Congressional District, a seat now held by Olin E. (Tiger) Teague of College Station.

Mowery, vice-president of the American Association of Petroleum Landmen, will face Carl Nigliazzo of Hearne in the May 4 Republican primary. Ft. Worth television weatherman Ron Godbey will attempt to unseat Teague for the Democratic nomination.

Nigliazzo was defeated by Teague in the 1974 Congressional election. Mowery, 49, who termed himself a "strict constitutionalist," said the federal government should not be doing everything for everybody.

He said, "We need to take on the bureaucratic system; cut it, slap it, dismantle it, whatever it takes to cut the costs of government and get sanity in spending."

A former mayor of Village, Texas, he said he supports a strong military power for the United States. He also backs a policy of doing away with deficit spending.

"Inflation is the cruelest tax of all," Mowery said, "hurting the poor and those on fixed incomes."

Mowery's wife, Anna, is the chairman of the Tarrant County Republican Party.

tact between American prisoners and prison authorities. Vasovski negotiated for better food, shelter and medical attention.

He maintained underground contact with other camps for resistance and information purposes. He was also instrumental in organizing escape groups. It was Vasovski who managed the successful escape of two American prisoners who later, in 1945, advised advancing American forces of the camp's location.

These humanitarian actions and the efforts of many of Vasovski's patients enabled him to immigrate to the United States. He was admitted in 1949 and naturalized in 1953. He entered the U.S. Air Force in September 1949.

When he thought about registering at A&M, Vasovski said, "I had some reservations (about registering at A&M) at first, but I went through the whole rigamarole."

Vasovski says that his grades are irrelevant. "I will do what I have to do, I don't like to be a failure."

He lives a very organized life, stemming from more than 35 years of military service. Vasovski says he has no problem finding time to study.

The only complaint of his study habits came from Mrs. Vasovski. "At a quarter till two he comes into the bed with cold feet."

Vasovski lives at 214 W. North Ave. with his wife, Ingeborg, who works at the Beutel Health Center. They have three boys, Frank, Thomas and Daniel.

He is taking 16 hours this semester. Will he complete four years at A&M? Vasovski says, "Ask the man above."

without serious opposition. They were first selected by late state Archibald Parr, the first Duval, then by his son, George B. Parr.

The Parr regime fell when George Parr took his while facing a federal prison income tax evasion. His nephew apparent to the title of Duval, former Duval County Archer Parr, went to prison for a 10-year term for perjury.

For many years, David Chapa was one of George's closest friends and political associates. Three of his sons, District Court Judge O. P. Chapa, former state Rep. Oscar Carrillo, Duval County Commissioner Carrillo, also were part of the Parr-Carrillo faction in County.

For most of this century, candidates were hand picked and ran
