

President given veto

 said he had been asked not to speak during the session. Student body President Dunn said he knew of no one making a request. Kent refused further comment.
 Changing the title from student government to student association was also discussed, but remained unchanged.
 Presently, A&M is the last major institution in Texas with the word government in its student governing group's title.
 Stan Stanfield submitted a provision dealing with the power of veto by the student body president. This was approved by the senate.

 Currently, if a bill approved by the senate goes unsigned by the president for five class days, it is automatically passed. Now, if the article goes unsigned for the same period of time, it will be considered vetoed and can only be overridden by a two-thirds vote of the senate.
 Some other revisions made at the constitutional convention were voted down. One of these lowering grade point requirement of a student senator from 2.25 to 2.0.

Joe Marcello made a motion that the offices of the vice president of finance and vice president of rules and regulations be removed from the governing structure. This was voted down.
 It was noted by Dunn, that at the conclusion of the meeting, 12:45 a.m., there was only one of four members from the executive committee in attendance. The member was Duane Thompson.
 The revised articles will be voted upon individually and at the same time, the entire constitution will be up for acceptance. The voting will take place next Thursday.

Negotiations to drag on

 by those close to the negotiations that talks between the two cities could drag on even longer, perhaps a month or more.
 College Station City Councilman Gary Halter Wednesday said he is undecided on the issue.
 "It seems to me that we can probably work out a better deal with Gulf States but I'm willing to pay a little bit more to go with Bryan because of the tremendous engineering expenses that would be involved in switching over to Gulf States."
 "But I don't want to pay a whole lot more than we are now," he said.
 Engineers for Gulf States have said that a power switchover probably could be made during a three-month period sometime in 1979 when Bryan's present contract with College Station expires.
 Councilman Bob Bell said he hoped that Bryan is trying to work out an agreement that is "economically and politically sound."
 "I want to stay with Bryan because I feel that both cities are a dual community and that the money should remain within those cities."
 Unopposed mayoral candidate Larry Bravenec yesterday said that Bryan is reconsidering its original offer and that Gulf States is contemplating what that firm will have to do in the event that the city decides to switch to Gulf States.

School board race draws interest have been split into propositions, because the voters are the ones to decide."

 Wilborn, a drug abuse counselor, stressed community awareness of the policies of the school board. She said one solution to provide liaison with the community would be to have appointed representatives from the community attend the school board meetings and contribute to the discussions.
 Upham, 19, a sophomore business management major at Texas A&M said, "This area needs a younger person on the board to help balance the local population and give insight from one who has more recently been in the school system."
 Incumbent Charles Hensarling, appointed to Position 4, did not file for election. He replaced Dr. O. C. Cooper who resigned in September 1975. He has been on the school board previously a total of five years and was the chairman of the budget committee for two years.
 "At one time the curriculum was university oriented, but now we have brought it into line with our present graduates, preparing them to make it on their own in the outside world," he said.
 "Another accomplishment of the school board is that we kept within our budget, especially with inflation and the Attorney General's ruling on non-assessment of fees from students," he said.
 Hensarling said he would like to see the physical education facilities expanded in the elementary grades.
 All of the candidates said the bond election will be the main issue, in conjunction with the vocational and extra classroom facilities needed and assuring tax payers of getting their dollar's worth.

Is it sick to love a pen?

Not if it's an extraordinary Pilot Razor Point marker pen. A fiber-tipped pen so precisely balanced, it will always feel comfortable in your hand, even after hours of writing. Its sturdy plastic point, surrounded by a unique Pilot metal "collar" writes a distinctly smooth, sharp line. In fact, it's the thinnest tipped pen you can buy. And that makes it just great for pages of notes or that one important love letter. Best of all, it's only 69c and is now available at your college book store.
 So if your Pilot pen makes you lovesick, don't be ashamed to admit it. After all, it'll always be good to you.

PILOT fineline marker pens. They'll never leave you flat.
