west Conference play today when they meet SMU in Dallas at 1 p.m. The two squads will also compete in a doubleheader Saturday.

The Mustangs will be paced by veteran lefthander Randy Johnson, infielder Mike Jacca, catcher Bruce Gietzen and outfielder Dudley Parker.

Last week's three game series with Texas Tech was rained out and the Ags will get their long awaited opportunity to make a strong conference showing.

"We're anxious to get off to a good Southwest Conference start," Chandler said.

"Anytime you get rained out you have to finish your schedule on a percentage basis.

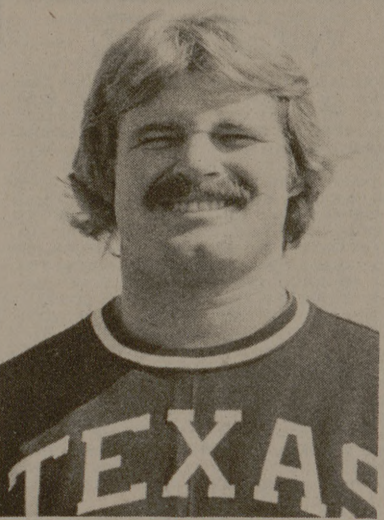

"I've always been against it," he added, "and I think the lost games should be decided on the field."

Clint Thomas will be on the mound today with James "Hoot" Gibson and David Lockett throwing in the twin bill Saturday.

Rice currently holds the SWC lead at 5-1, with Texas and Houston close behind with 3-0 marks. Baylor is third at 2-1 and TCU is 1-2. Arkansas and SMU have yet to win in three conference tries.

In other games today, Texas Tech (0-0) will begin conference play at home when they entertain UH. Rice travels to Waco to battle Baylor and Texas goes against TCU in Fort Worth.

A&M will leave for San Antonio Saturday to compete in the Alamo City Bicentennial Tournament. During the four day tourney, the Farmers will play St. Mary's University, Kansas University, Illinois University and Trinity University.

May, Dantley lead all-American cage team

Sonny P honorable mention

Associated Press
Scott May, Indiana's standout forward, was named The Associated Press' 1976 college basketball Player of the Year today.

May, described by pro scouts as "the complete player," outscored Notre Dame's Adrian Dantley 133-76 in the nationwide voting by sports writers and broadcasters.

The 6-foot-7 May provided consistent firepower up front for Indiana, helping the Hoosiers to the No. 1 ranking and an unbeaten regular season with a 24-point average.

May also headed the AP's All-American team announced Thursday.

In addition to May and Dantley, the first team consisted of John Lucas of Maryland, Phil Sellers of Rutgers and Indiana's Kent Benson.

May hit 13 of 15 field goal attempts for 34 points in a 94-78 victory over the Russian national team, then made 15 of 24 for 33 points in an 84-64 romp over UCLA. In a pair of four-point victories over Purdue, the highly efficient senior scored 32 and 26 points while connecting on 24 of 38 field shots. His best offensive effort was 41 points and 18 rebounds against Wisconsin.

May, sure to be somebody's first-round pick in this year's pro draft, is described by one scout as "a clutch shooter, and an awfully hard worker."

"There's been a lot of pressure on May to come through this season, and he's done everything asked of him," says Tom Miller, Indiana's sports information director. "Last year we had more balanced scoring and the kids didn't look solely to May for scoring. But this year we kids are in trouble they're looking for him, and he's been doing it."

May and Dantley far outdistanced the field in the voting for The Player of the Year. Benson's 28 votes for third place, Lucas was fourth with 15.

Drill team to compete

Unbeaten in its first two years the Fish Drill Team will attend first International Drill and Meet in El Paso during spring break.

The team won at Tulane and University of Texas. Twenty-two teams will take part in the March UT-El Paso-sponsored competition.

"Two first places against competition have given the team a lot of confidence," observed Steve Berkeiser, sponsor.

The team won over six other teams and took championship Saturday at the UT-Austin School and Blade Meet.

The El Paso A&M Club will support the Fish Drill Team trip.
