Tampa, Seattle now have players to put into uniform

NEW YORK — Philosophically, coaches Jack Patera of the Seattle Seahawks and John McKay of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers are far apart on how to construct a football team. "We go along with the theory that you build a team with defense," said Patera. "I truly believe you win on defense."

To which McKay replied: "I don't buy that at all. You build a team with good football players. Some of them play offense and some of them play defense." Armed with their opposing ideas and a sea of scouting reports, Patera and McKay went about formulating the basic rosters of the National Football League's newest teams. On Wednesday, scarcely 15 hours after they had completed the task, both seemed totally satisfied.

"I think we came out well," said McKay. "There were better players in the expansion draft than we thought possible."

"We thought there would be some good ones but the over-all quality was a bit surprising," added Patera. There were some other interesting selections. The only quarterback picked went to Seattle which chose Neil Graft from New England and Gary Keithley from St. Louis.

"We'll get the right quarterback some place," the former University of Southern California coach said. "If we don't get a good one, we can always go to the single wing."

Three of Tampa's picks may never play for the Bay Buccaneers. Swift had announced his intention to leave the NFL for medical school. McKay also drafted two of his former USC star, running back Anthony and wide receiver J.K. McKay just happens to be the coach's "My wife's son," McKay.

Davis and the younger McKay both chose to play in the Football League last season. The WFL folded, Davis signed with Toronto of the Canadian Football League and McKay has resigned as an assistant coach at Oregon State.

"We think Anthony will eventually come back," said McKay. "He was drafted with a long range program, not just for this year."

As for Mrs. McKay's son, McKay grinned. "We haven't talked to him. He does owe me quite a bit of money," he said.

Patera, McKay disagree on coaching philosophies

NEW YORK — Tampa Bay's John McKay called it "just another day of recruiting." Seattle's Jack Patera called it "a numbers game." But the coaches of the National Football League's two expansion franchises finally have some players to put into their bright new uniforms.

Now it's a matter of seeing if these guys can get together, become teams instead of individuals and maybe win a few games.

As McKay put it: "It was just another day of recruiting... We'll go home now, sit down, put the players' names on a blackboard and say, 'Here they are, now what do we do?'"

"We picked a good basic roster and we got our share of good football players. Seattle did, too."

Or, as Patera, referring to the 26 teams that gave up the players to stock the Buccaneers and his Seahawks, said: "These teams have their own reasons for putting players up. At times you get into a numbers game."

What they have is 39 names apiece. More will come next week when the NFL conducts its annual collegiate draft.

But what kind of names do the Buccaneers and Seahawks have now? They have tested veterans but are they over the hill? and unproven youngsters but will their promise ever be fulfilled?

Each of the 26 veteran teams was permitted to protect 32 players in all. Each time a player was picked from the available list, that team was permitted to pull back another player and protect him. Eventually, each old club gave up three players.

Among the "name" players picked by Tampa Bay were McKay's son, J.K., a wide receiver with the University of Southern California when his dad was the Trojans' coach; former Southern Cal star running back Anthony Davis; Oakland running back Harold Hart and tight end Bob Moore, Miami linebacker Doug Swift who says he's retiring to enter medical school, Kansas City safety Jim Kearney and Buffalo defensive end Pat Toomay.

Seattle gobbled up Baltimore linebacker Mike Curtis and running back Bill Olds, Miami tackle Norm Evans, Los Angeles linebacker Ken Geddes and cornerback Eddie McMillan, Pittsburgh defensive back Dave Brown and Detroit tight end John McMakin. The Seahawks also picked the only two quarterbacks — New England's Neil Graft and St. Louis' Gary Keithley.

Both Davis and the younger McKay chose the World Football League over the NFL a year ago, each signing with the Southern California Sun before the Sun — and the entire WFL — sank slowly into bankruptcy.

Davis was the second-round selection by the New York Jets, McKay a 16th-round pick by the Cleveland Browns. When the WFL went under, both went north — Davis to the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League, McKay to a coaching position at Oregon State University.

Davis is under contract to the Argos, but that doesn't seem to bother the elder McKay just yet. "He's gone to Canada," he said, "but a lot of people who have gone there have returned."

As for being reunited with his son — if J.K. so chooses — McKay said he was delighted. And when asked if he thought J.K. would be easier to coach as a pro than as a collegian, McKay replied: "If he catches the ball and runs the right routes, he will be."

Committee makes legal dunking ban

PHILADELPHIA — During the practice of stuffing a basketball through the hoop — was restricted by the sport's amateur games rulemakers on Wednesday.

The National Basketball Association Committee, which governs amateur basketball in the United States and Canada, voted to ban dunking during games of the season.

Dr. Clifford Fagan, secretary of the 23-member committee, completed its two-day annual meeting in Philadelphia Wednesday. A dunking will be permitted during a game but will be prohibited four months before the game and prior to a mission under penalty of forfeiture.

The committee also put a dunking prior to the 1966-67 season in a controversial vote. The vote was always pending pending a vote to go to the committee also announced two other major rules changes. Technical fouls charged by a coach which result from fouls on the bench will have a penalty of free throws. Only one free throw awarded this past season.

And time has been extended for correctable errors in basketball. The extension of time when the ball is put back into play after the error.

Dr. Fagan said the extra working mean that the clock will be plan to when a mistake is made. The rules changes apply around major and small colleges, just to colleges, high schools and leagues in both boys and girls' basketball.
