Texas A&M to host women's track meet

By DEBBY KRENEK
Battalion Staff Writer

Baylor, Sam Houston State and Texas A&M women tracksters will meet Saturday at Kyle Field as the Aggies host the Texas Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women zone track meet.

Field events will begin at 9 a.m. with running events starting at 10 a.m.

Fresh off a sixth place finish in the Denton track meet, the Aggie women are hoping for a second place in this zone meet, Coach David Williams said.

"Baylor has to be the favorite. They've won zone the last couple of years and they're the strongest team coming into the competition," Williams said.

"I look for Sharon Boyle to take first in both the three-mile and two-mile competition because she is a strong runner," Williams said. Boyle scored 18 out of the 26 points the Aggies accumulated in the Denton meet.

Darcy Ehmann and Sandra Lyman are A&M's strongest field entries, Williams said.

"Both Sandra and Darcy have qualified for nationals in discus," Williams said. To meet the qualifying standard takes a throw of 125 feet. Ehmann qualified with a throw of 130 and Lyman with 128.

The top three finishers in each event in the zone meet will qualify for state competition which will be held here at Kyle Field April 30-May 1. Women may also qualify for the state meet by making the qualifying standards set up for each event.

A&M has previously finished second in the Abilene Wildcat meet and the Stephen F. Austin meet in Nacogdoches.

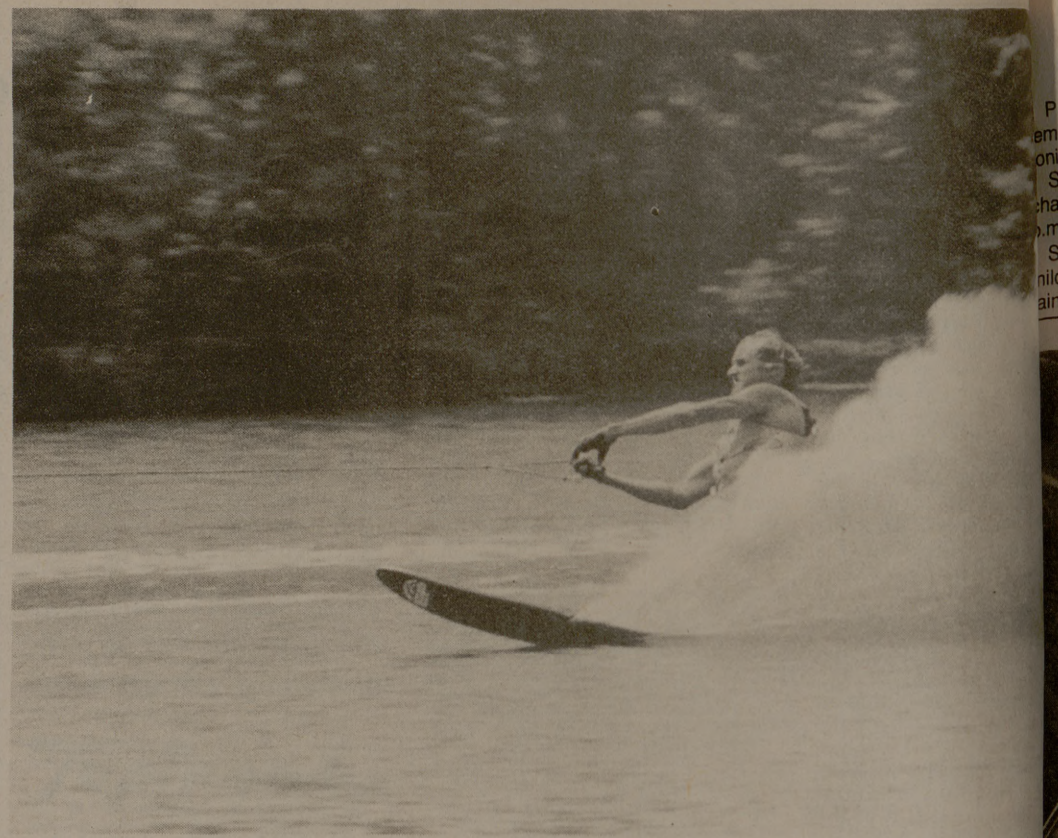

Texas A&M entries are: 3-Mile — Sharon Boyle, Kay Kingsberry; 440 Relay — Darcy Ehmann, Martha Sartain, Debbie Timmons, Liz Warren; Mile — Boyle, Diane McCrady; 100-meter Hurdles — Timmons; 440-yard Dash — Sartain, Brenda Snyder; 100-yard Dash — Warren, Ehmann, Barbara Rowe; 880-yard Run — Sartain, McCrady; 400-meter Hurdles — Timmons; 220-yard Dash — Warren, Ehmann, Rowe; 2-mile Run — Boyle, Snyder; 2-mile Relay — Kingsberry, Ehmann, Lyman, McCrady; Mile Relay — Boyle, Timmons, Warren, Sartain; Long Jump — Rowe, Sartain; Shot Put — Ehmann, Lyman, Kim Walker; Javelin — Ehmann, Lyman, Walker; Discus — Ehmann, Lyman, Walker; High Jump — Boyle.

Skiers take first in final tourney

The Texas A&M ski team took first in overall competition against a nine team field last weekend in what was the Aggies' final tournament of the year.

The A&M men's 'A' took first in jumping and a second and third in trick and slalom skiing. The women's squad took firsts in all three categories, finishing on top in their division.

The University of Houston and Oklahoma State University finished second and third respectively.

A&M's Billy Weiser competes in the Aggies' recent tournament win on the Neches River near Baytown.

UT cager fined for peeking

University of Texas basketball player Carl Belcher was fined $36 by Municipal Court Judge Sarah Denton after pleading guilty to two counts of criminal trespass.

Belcher, a freshman from Houston Kashmere, was charged by two UT coeds of "peeking into the girl's shower" at Gregory Gym, Lt. Leonard Young of the university police said. The maximum for criminal trespass is $200.

How this will affect Belcher's status as a scholarship athlete is unknown, Bill Little, UT's assistant sports information officer said.

Former Texas Head coach Leon Black had only one comment. "I am speechless."

Ags travel to AAIL

Coach Bob Ellis' golf team continues competition today in the 22nd Annual All-America Intercollegiate Invitational tournament at the Atascocita Country Club.

The tourney, perhaps the most prestigious college meet in the nation, lasts through Saturday.

Six of the nation's top 10 collegiate golf teams, including favored Oklahoma State, continue competing for the team title.

Oklahoma State, ranked No. 2 nationally, headed the 25-team field followed by Texas, No. 4, Houston, fifth, Georgia sixth, Auburn seventh and New Mexico eighth.

Dave Williams, coach of host University of Houston, said Phil Hancock, who lost the individual title in a playoff last year, will be the favorite along with Jaime Gonzalez of Oklahoma State.

"But the team aspect is what makes it the most exciting tournament anywhere," Williams said. "Ben Crenshaw told me it reminded him of a Texas-Arkansas football game and it's all because of the team thing."

Crenshaw, now a touring pro, is a former participant in the AAIL.

Phil Hancock of Florida State, tabbed as the individual favorite last year in a sudden-death playoff to teammate Andy Jones, the leading returnee, finished second in the team title.

Hancock, who lost the individual title last year in a sudden-death playoff to teammate Andy Jones, the leading returnee, finished second in the team title.

UH's Keith Fergus, the amateur runnerup and a participant in last week's tournament at Augusta, Ga., also is among the favorites for individual honors.

Chip Beck, who finished second last week, will return to lead the team. Ben Crenshaw, who lost the team title last year, will also be in the field. Williams' UH teams have won the team title 16 times.

Cage star's father prefers quiet, small town life

Associated Press
Like many impoverished youngsters whose athletic talents make them millionaires, pro basketball star Artis Gilmore vowed to make life easier for his family.

But things became a bit complicated.

Gilmore, the 7-foot-2-center of the American Basketball Association's Kentucky Colonels, brought his parents a three-bedroom home in Panama City after signing a $2-million contract in 1971.

His mother and the remainder of his eight brothers and sisters still at home picked up and moved from the family's two-room shack in this northwest Florida town.

But not Gilmore's father. "I'm a Christian and I don't make it that way, so money change me," said the 75-year-old Gilmore, who prefers living in a small town where he has some friends. He met since 1906.

He prefers the quiet life around town to collect cans for recycling, fishing or with friends. The elder Gilmore enjoys the solitude and quiet shack, where two action photos of his son's basketball career are displayed on the wall. A transistor radio is tuned to the Louisville station playing the Colonels' games.

Don't buy any receiver until you compare its price, power, and specs to these.

The Technics SA-5550. With impressive specs. And a lot more.

With direct coupling. To give you a tighter, cleaner bass.

With reserve power to float through complex, high-level musical passages without distortion or clipping. Because of large capacitors, conservative rated transformers, and bridge rectifiers in the power supply.

With a Phase Lock Loop IC and flat group delay filters in the tuner section. For clean, well-separated highs as well as lower distortion on FM. And about 20% less wiring. To reduce hum.

All with Technics' exclusive linear dial scale.

For effortless tuning on both AM and FM. Negative feedback low distortion tone controls. And all the inputs and outputs you'd expect from Technics.

The concept is simple. The execution is precise. The performance is outstanding. The name is Technics.
