

Reagan takes first place in race

can nominating delegates, Ford 9. The delegates were apportioned on the basis of congressional district pluralities as well as statewide showings.

On the Democratic side: Carter 380,976, or 68 per cent. Wallace 82,916, or 15 per cent. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, a dropout from the active campaign, 65,409, or 12 per cent.

Carter won 48 delegates, Wallace six, with 21 uncommitted.

Georgia
With 98 per cent of the precincts counted:

Reagan 124,880, or 68 per cent. Ford 57,795, or 32 per cent. That meant 48 delegates for Reagan.

Democrat Carter had 408,397, or 84 per cent.

Wallace 56,357, or 12 per cent. Democrats held separate competition for delegates, and Carter won all 50.

Alabama
With 13 per cent of the Republican precincts counted, Reagan led for 31 delegates.

In the Democratic primary, with 64 per cent of the precincts in, Wallace was winning 29 delegates, Carter three, and three were uncommitted.

District of Columbia
Carter led for seven delegates, Rep. Morris K. Udall for four, and two uncommitted entries were ahead, with 45 per cent of the precincts counted.

That meant Reagan had won 124 delegates on his biggest day as a candidate, for his national total of 360. Ford captured only nine, to get 292. It will take 1,130 to name a GOP nominee.

Ford has had reserve delegate strength in the ranks of nominally uncommitted Republicans, including 254 delegates elected in the New York and Pennsylvania primaries.

Morton said the Ford organization will move to tie down those delegates, but that may be difficult just now. With Ford in difficulty, they may want to see some more primaries before deciding how to go. The convention is three months away, and given the new look of the Republican race, uncommitted status may look good to them.

Reagan's road upward began when he started hitting hard at Ford on foreign and defense policy, claiming the United States has slipped to second place militarily. Ford struck back with harshly-worded denials, said Reagan was glib, superficial and inexperienced. That didn't counter the Reagan thrust, and it is not evident what Ford can do now to cope with that campaign offensive.

Canada revives auto race classic

Associated Press
TORONTO — The Players 200, a name synonymous with auto racing in Canada in the 1960s, has been revived for the first World Sports Car Championship race staged in this country.

The race, involving factory-supported cars like turbo-charged Porsches, Renaults and Alfa Romeos, includes such highly-regarded drivers as Jochen Mass, Patrick Depailler, Jean-Pierre Jarier and Rolf Stommelen, all Formula 1 Grand Prix drivers.

The race is part of a race weekend at Mosport, 50 miles east of here, Aug. 20-22 that will feature a Trans-Am race and the final Challenge Series race of 1976.

Fiesta Bowl game announces date

Associated Press
PHOENIX — The 1976 Fiesta Bowl football game will be played the afternoon of Dec. 25, Christmas Day, bowl president Glenn Hawkins has announced.

The NCAA Extra Events Committee approved the Saturday date and the NCAA Council ratified it, Hawkins said.

The Fiesta Bowl pits the Western Athletic Conference champion against a guest team at Tempe.

Burglaries:

Far-flung lots bring crime

"High visibility from the streets would cut down the problem," Luther said. There has been some decrease in burglaries in the lots this year compared to last year, he said, but he wasn't sure great how a decrease.

The police chief said no additional lighting is planned for the lots. Charles Brunt, University construction manager, agreed.

"From our standpoint the lots are finished," Brunt said. "There's not anything planned on them."

Bob Melcher, administrator for student services, said he had not been asked about burglarizing the lots. He said he would immediately check with University officials on improving visibility in those areas.

Means wounded in North Dakota

Yankton Indian Reservation, Don Loudner, said a statement would be made later in the day. Local police also refused to comment, and no other details were immediately available.

Means, a cofounder of the militant Indian organization, gained national attention when AIM members and supporters took over the village of Wounded Knee, S.D., on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation in 1973.

Means was shot last year in North Dakota in an incident in which he was charged with interfering with a Bureau of Indian Affairs officers. He received and was acquitted.

He is appealing a conviction in connection with a riot at a county courthouse in Sioux Falls.

Day-care backers predict veto override

Associated Press
WASHINGTON — Backers of a bill that would supply $125 million to help states meet new federal standards for staffing of child day care centers predict the Senate will vote to override President Ford's veto of the measure.

However, supporters of the day care bill say today's override vote in the Senate will be close.

The House voted Tuesday, 301 to 101, to override Ford's veto of the measure — 33 more than the required two-thirds majority.

The measure would grant states $125 million to meet new federal standards for the number of employees who must work in federally subsidized child day care centers, but would also delay implementation of the standards until July 1.

The new standards require a minimum number of adult day workers to care for children between the ages of six weeks and six years. Day care centers that fail to meet more widely available. It would not receive federal money previous suspension of these standards, enacted last October, expires Feb. 1.

In vetoing the bill, Ford said "would not make day-care more widely available. It would make them more costly to American taxpayer."

A Democratic source in the White House said the Senate leadership anticipates the vote will be overridden narrowly.

However, the source said the outcome depends on the effectiveness of what he called a heavy lobbying campaign by the White House to sway the votes of Republican senators who previously supported the measure.

"The White House gave up on House — seeing the veto would be overridden there — and has been concentrating its efforts in the Senate," the source said.

In March, the Senate approved the bill 59 to 30, which is one short of a two-thirds margin.

But backers of the measure say that some senators absent for the vote are Democrats who support the bill and who will vote to override the veto.

An aide to Sen. Bob Packwood (R-Ore.), an opponent of the measure, said, however, that there are not enough votes in the Senate to sustain the veto.

Ford has urged Congress to fund his program, under which he would set and enforce the day-care standards.

William Calley, Jr. plans May wedding

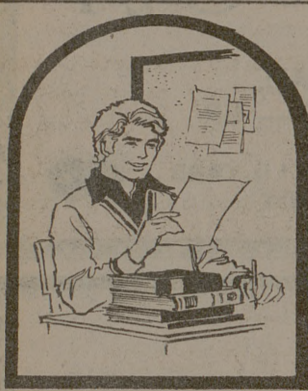

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — William L. Calley Jr. plans to marry the daughter of a prominent jeweler May 15, friends of the couple say.

Penny Vick, 29, a buyer for father's jewelry store, has been engaged to Calley, 32, for more than a year.

The former U.S. Army lieutenant has lived in Columbus since his 1971 court-martial conviction for murder of 22 civilians at My Lai, South Vietnam.

The U.S. Supreme Court refused to review his sentence, but the Army has said he will be jailed.

Anne Moore, the young red-haired woman who visited Calley daily during his trial and the years of house arrest at Ft. Benning, has since married and moved to south Georgia.
