

Wildlife disease experts convene at Texas A&M

Almost 200 authorities on wildlife diseases convened at Texas A&M University Monday for the start of the annual Wildlife Disease Association conference.

The four-day meeting of the international organization features an array of papers and presentations on afflictions of mammals, birds and fish.

Speakers from throughout the U. S., Canada and Kenya will review a wide range of species and diseases.

One paper examines Venezuelan equine encephalitis (VEE) serology in the Western diamond-back rattlesnake, and another the infection of the currently vogue armadillo with human leprosy.

Others explore "Oral Flora of South Texas Tarantulas" and "Tuberculosis in a Zoological Park."

Symposia concentrate on research trends and enigma of the meningial worm.

Keynoting the program was Dr. Lars Karstad of Kabete, Kenya's veterinary research laboratory. The pathologist and author delivered the address at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday in Rudder Tower.

Frank Johnson, manager of th Aransas National Wildlife Refuge near Corpus Christi, is speaker for a 7 p.m. Wednesday banquet.

Duplicate bridge game to fund team, charity

A special duplicate bridge game will be held by the Texas A&M Bridge Club on Friday, July 30, at 8 p.m. in the Memorial Student Center.

This Olympiad Charity Game helps to fund both the North American Olympiad team and this year's American Contract Bridge League charity, the Arthritis Foundation.

The game will take place simultaneously with the finals for the selection of the North American Olympic Bridge Team and will carry a sectional rating. Entry fee is six dollars per pair. For reservations and further information, contact either David McLellan (846-0889) or Jim Seabelt (846-9696).

Aggie is top cadet

Air Force 2nd Lt. Philip J. DuChamp, a 1976 Texas A&M University graduate, has been chosen for the Air Force Association-Texas AFROTC Cadet of the Year Award.

The statewide award will be presented during the AFA-T convention July 23-25 in Houston.

Association vice president for awards George C. Lambkin notified Col. Robert Elkins, Texas A&M professor of aerospace studies, of the DuChamp honor.

DuChamp is the second Aggie in a row to win the award. Millard H. Gray of San Antonio was the 1975 AFROTC Cadet of the Year.

Formerly of Orange, DuChamp was graduated magna cum laude in zoology. The Air Force Association-Texas AFROTC Cadet of the Year Award is presented annually to a Texas A&M student who has been accepted at a military college or university of Texas Southwestern State University in Dallas and is attending camp at Kerrville.
