

Walker leads the charge

Ags roar by 'Cats

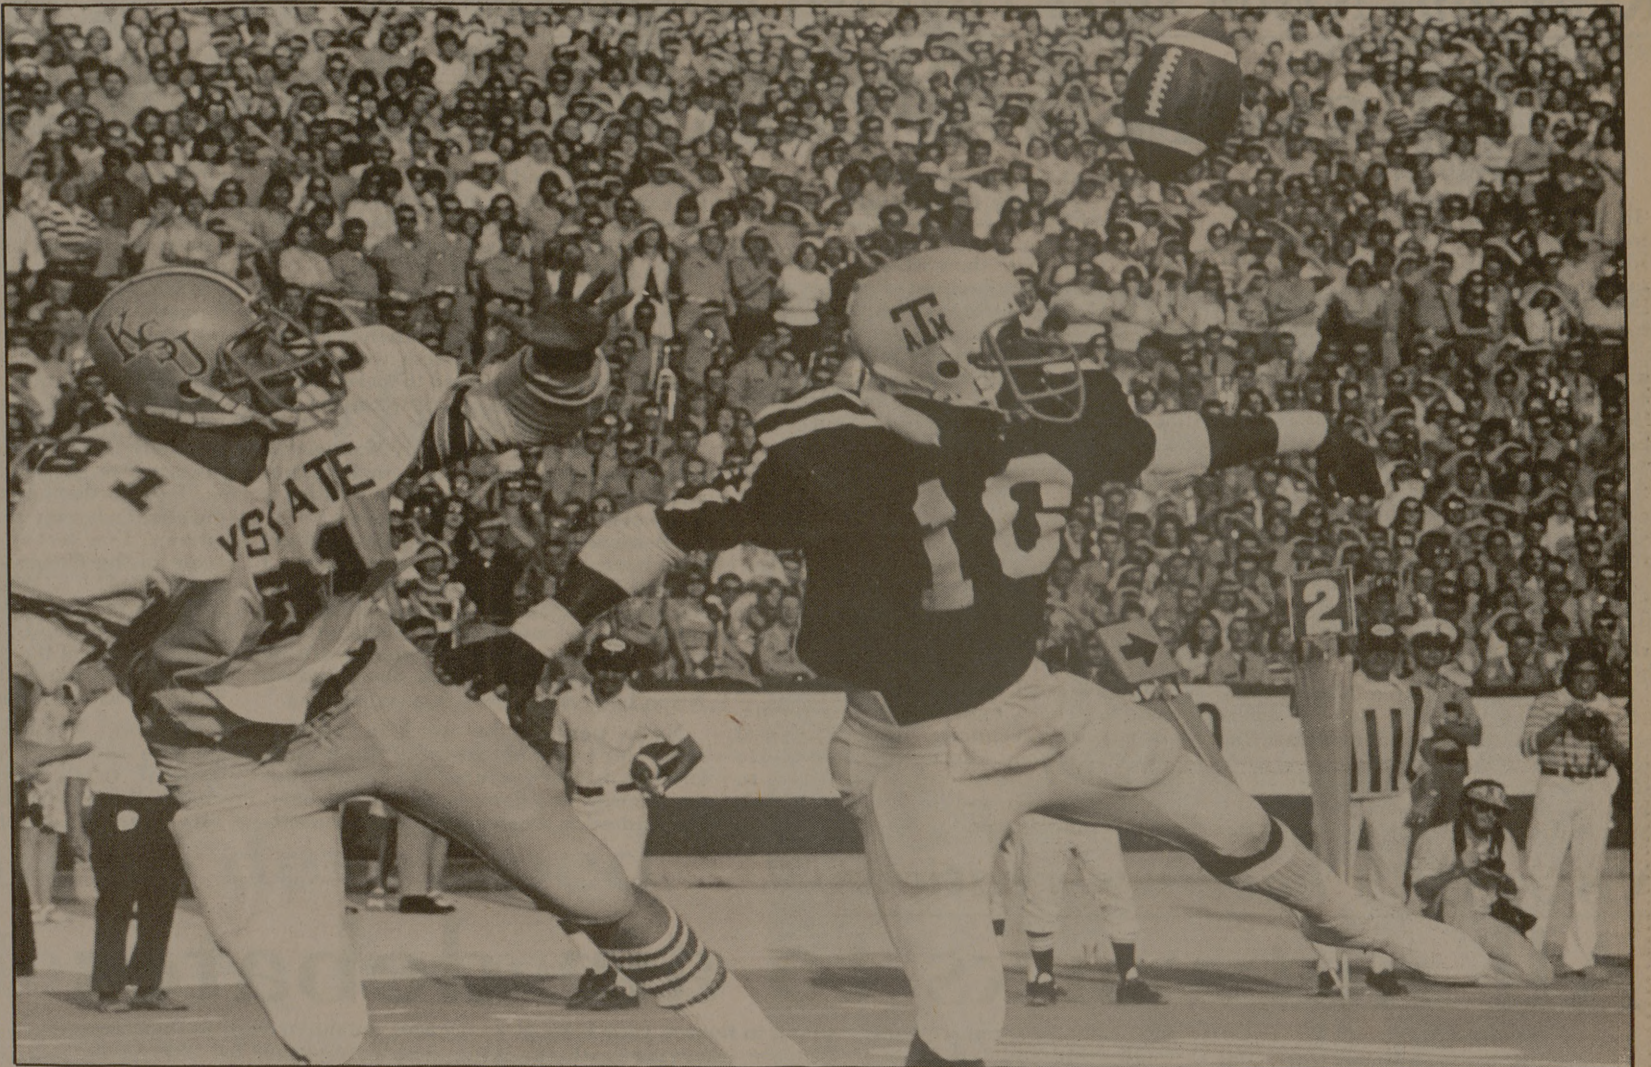

By PAT EDMONDSON
The game was supposed to develop as a defensive battle started as such, when David "the Kid" Walker, "Woo" Woodard, and Tony "Shoe" Franklin put in their Texas A&M offense pro- the spark and the Aggies over Kansas State, 34-14. It the second consecutive win the Wildcats for A&M and second of the young 1976 sea- The Ags defeated Virginia Tech week's opener, 19-0.

on one play, Shipman took snap from center, faked back a set, and calmly eased a strike end Gary Haack. The senior San Antonio Lee glaced back and made a desperate dive, clutch- ing the ball with his fingertips.

"That catch was enjoyable," said Haack. "We needed something to get our morale picked up. And that catch sure picked us up."
But as the offense appeared to threaten, Curtis Dickey fumbled a pitchout and the 'Cats momentarily halted the offensive effort.
Ag linebacker Jesse Hunnicutt jumped on a K-State loose ball and the spark was initiated.
David Walker entered the game, and in the same fashion that earned him Freshman of the Year honors in 1973 guided the Ags down the length of the football to paydirt. He hit split end Mike Floyd on a post pattern for 35 yards. George Woodard, just ripening at the age of 21, got the next five of six calls and evened the contest on a one yard run.
Another pair of fumbles resulted in a pair of three pointers by Tony Franklin. One occurred with one second showing on the clock when a Wildcat back got careless and coughed up the ball on the Aggie 52 yard line. The kick cleared the crossbar by 15 yards.
The offense was clicking so that even high school running back Craig Glendenning, currently em- ployed as left guard in the heart of the interior line, put points on the scoreboard. Woodard was hobbling across the line when the ball was jarred loose in the Wildcat end zone. Glendenning, cleared the way for Woodard and ended up covering the ball for his first collegiate touchdown.
"George just let me have it," chuckled Glendenning. "But I'm not gonna give it back to him."

Though they started out slow, the offensive proved to be the starting block of the forward punch.
"I think we just had to get the feel of things," said center Mark Dennard. "It's the mark of a good team to stay in there and fight like we die. Kansas State was hard nosed, and he added, "they are a good physical football team."
"We had to change our blocking scheme," said Haack. They were keying on our guards, and when we made the transition, it opened every- thing to the outside."
Woodard was the leading ground gainer, tacking up 177 yards on 29 carries and two touchdowns. It was the second consecutive week the back from Van Fleck had hit that mark. Woodard bulldozed his way through the Kansas State line, one time carrying five tacklers on his back for a nine yard gain. Walker looked superb in executing the triple option. At times he reminded Aggie fans of his scampering antics of '73.
Franklin kicked consistently all day, a contrast to last week's per- formance against Virginia Tech.
Freshman Curtis Dickey chalked up his first score as a college run- ning back, going around right end for a four yards. Even half back David Brothers showed the future of the Aggie backfield as he shined on numerous occasions.
This week, the Ags travel to Houston to take on the University of Houston at Rice Stadium. The Cougars will be coming off a devas- tating 49-14 loss to Florida.

Ags impress Kansas State

By PAUL McGRATH

For the third consecutive season, Coach Emory Ballard has gotten his Texas A&M Aggies off to a 2-0 start.
The Aggies' 34-14 win over the Kansas State Wildcats was almost a duplicate of their opening day victory against Virginia Tech. Texas A&M again combined the efforts of a stingy defense with the bull-like rushes of fullback George Woodard to overpower their visitors from the Big Eight Conference.
Kansas State Head Coach Ellis Rainsberger said he was impressed with the Aggies' performance. "I think they're one of the top teams in the nation," he said. "They're a better football team than they were when they played us last year." Texas A&M defeated the Wildcats 10-0 in Manhattan, Kan. last season in a tough defensive struggle.

Rainsberger said the added diver- sity of the Texas A&M offense is one of the bigger pluses in the Aggies' favor. Ballard's offensive group to- taled 404 yards against a supposedly firm Kansas State defense. Of that total, 131 came on six pass comple- tions and 273 came off A&M's Wishbone running attack.

Once again it was Woodard who keyed the A&M offense, gaining 177 yards in 29 carries. It was the most carries in Woodard's short career at A&M, with two of his rushes good for one yard touchdowns.

"The big thing in their offense is their fullback. He's just dominat- ing," Rainsberger said. Several State defenses were designed to key on the fullback and Woodard "still ran well against those," the Wildcat coach said.

Wildcat linebacker Carl Pen- ington, who was repeatedly in the Aggie backfield, called Woodard a "good" fullback.

"He's hard to bring down," Pen- ington said. "He's one of the main things that makes their offense go."

Rainsberger agreed, saying his defense just could not stop the Aggie fullback. That fact, along with five turnovers, sounded the Wildcat's death song, said Rainsberger.

"They outthit us. They're just a good football team," he said.

Kansas State quarterback Bill Swanson said "it was a lot of little things" that brought about the Wildcat's demise.

"I made some mistakes on some reads in the beginning and we seemed to lack concentration on holding onto the ball," he said.

Swanson scored both KSU touchdowns on a pair of one yard snacks.

Rainsberger cited the turnovers for putting too much pressure on his defense and allowing A&M to come back and control the game after falling behind 7-0 in the first quarter.

"Our defense got in trouble in the second quarter and just couldn't get out," he said.

Last year's win over KSU was marked by comments after the game by Wildcat players that A&M could not compete in the Big Eight.

Concerning those statements, Swanson said "A&M could play anybody if you ask me. The Big Eight's tough but A&M proved they could play against anybody."

Big George Woodard made a rare mistake when he fumbled near the goal line. His fumble was recovered by Craig Glendenning in the endzone for a touchdown.
