Women ruggers are champions of Texas

By KATHY YOUNG
The Texas A&M Women's Rugby team captured the championship of Women's Rugby in Texas at the Corpus Christi tournament last weekend. The women beat Austin 4-0, Galveston 14-0, and went on to defeat Houston in the finals 10-0.

Playing three games in two days with only seven veteran players, the women dominated the tournament shutting out each of their opponents. Player-coach Kathi Chappell said she was more than a little worried Saturday morning as the eight rookies took the field against the Austin Women's Rugby team. The Aggie ruggers started slowly in an error-filled first half because more than half of the 15 woman squad was made up of players with only one game under their belts.

problems," Chappell said. The team is supported by donations and gets four cents a mile to pay for gasoline on road trips, she added.

"The players have to buy their own uniforms, shoes, and pay for their meals and hotel rooms on out-of-town games," Chappell said.

The Saturday morning game against Austin was scoreless until late in the second half. The maroon team formed a shell around Norine Harris and pushed her across the goal line for the score.

"We call that our power play," Chappell said in describing the game winning try. The defense held Austin and the Aggie ruggers went on to win 4-0.

Saturday afternoon the Aggies faced Galveston. Overcoming the weak start in the Austin game, the team from College Station caught fire in the second game.

On the first play of the game Sandy Chandler scored on a 50 yard run. Jan Smalley put the ball between the uprights making the score 6-0.

In rugby a player scores a try, worth four points, by crossing the goal and touching the ball to the ground. Following the try the team gets to kick for a two point conversion from the ten yard line.

Later in the first half, Mary Spidel, "The Juice", ran like her namesake, O.J. Simpson, and scored another four points for the maroon.

The final try was scored by Susan Stabler in the second half giving the Aggies 14 points while the defense held Galveston scoreless.

"We completely dominated the game. We didn't have any injuries or penalties," Chappell said.

Sunday afternoon Chappell and her ruggers met the Houston Boars for the championship game. Again the Aggies outmaneuvered and outran their opponents showing the endurance that daily practice builds. Chappell said, "We practice every day while the other teams only practice twice a week. The opponents called several two minute time outs for players that were injured or simply tired, but the Aggies were always ready," she added.

Sandy Chandler and "The Juice" each scored again followed by one successful conversion by Jan Smalley.

Cross country team travels to Houston

The Texas A&M men's cross country team opens its 1978 season at the Rice Invitational this Saturday in Houston.

The meet covers a five-mile course starting at the corner of Memorial Drive and Buffalo Bayou. The race is scheduled for 11:30 a.m.

Assistant Track Coach Ted M. supervises the A&M cross country team, which placed fifth in the Southwest Conference last year.

Sophomore Manfred Kuhn, senior Kyle Heffner, both of whom ran in the NCAA national meet last season, lead the Aggie squad. Other members on the team are juniors Lane Mitchell, Joel Walter Jachimowicz, Tommie and senior Phil Edelen.

Scoring in cross country is based on the numerical finish of each runner and the team with the lowest score wins. Seven men on each team are allowed to compete although only the finishes of the five men are tabulated. In case of a tie, the finish of a team's sixth man is taken into account.

The SWC meet will be held at Lubbock Nov. 8, followed by the regional meet on Nov. 15. The national meet will be held Nov. 22 at Houston.
